Anti-Inflation Plan Offered By OPA Group

"Strong Stand" Against "Premature" Removal Of Ceilings Urged

PRICES OF COTTON CLOTHING TO RISE

Advisory Committee Believes New Law Can Be Made To Work

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Consumer Advisory Committee today laid down a five-point anti-inflation program calling for a "strong stand" against "premature" removal of price ceilings on basic commodities, particularly food items.

The committee unveiled its program as OPA announced that cotton clothing prices are going up six to eight per cent and that bed sheets and other household linens soon will cost about 17 per cent more.

The Advisory Committee said in a statement that despite "several major inadequacies" of the new price control law, "we believe the act can still serve to check inflation if wisely administered and if buttressed by intelligent consumer action."

The committee said this "minimum program" was necessary to make the act work:

"1. A strong stand on the part of the government and administrative agencies involved against premature control of all basic commodities, with immediate emphasis on food stuffs.

"2. Immediate adoption of administrative policies and procedures which will guarantee that commodities will be recontrolled when prices give evidence of the coming inflationary

"3. Strengthened enforcement by OPA of all price ceilings.

"4. Assumption by the President of the important responsibility for co-ordinating the anti-inflation fight, a responsibility clearly implied in the new legislation.

"5. As an indispensable part of the foundation for effective government action in controlling inflation, the establishment on a strong consumer organization on a local, state and national basis."

A member of the Advisory Committee told a reporter privately that the group is "working on plans" to create such consumer organizations.

New Decontrol Board Considered

The committee members said also that the committee had in mind the new price decontrol board, as well as OPA and the Agriculture Department, in recommending a strong stand against premature removal of ceilings.

The new board is authorized to decide whether controls should be restored after August 20 on meats, dairy products, grains, eggs, poultry and other items.

The reason for the boost in prices of garments and household articles, OPA said, is the average 16 per cent increase in cotton textile ceilings required under the new price control law.

The higher ceilings on fabrics, ordered into effect immediately, will add about $500,000,000 a year to the industry's returns, OPA estimated.

Meanwhile, the agency took these other actions:

1. Removed price controls on 52 miscellaneous items, many of them imported food specialties and none "significantly affecting the cost of living."

2. Authorized a retail increase of (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Greece Hits Albanian Bid To Enter U.N.

Memorandum Charges Persecution Of Greeks, Asks Action Delay

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—Greece bitterly opposed Albania's Soviet-supported bid for membership in the United Nations tonight in a long memorandum charging Albania with persecution of Greeks and recalling the Albanian role as an early aggressor ally of Fascist Italy.

The specific Greek charge was that Albania could not qualify as a peace-loving state, a charter requirement for membership.

The Athens government already has raised the Greek territorial claim on Northern Epirus—now part of Albania—at the Paris Peace Conference.

The formal Greek letter of opposition to Albania, which was handed to the United Nations Security Council's Membership Committee after a four-hour debate on Albanian, asked postponement of action on the application.

"Peace" Would Be "At Stake"

Otherwise, the Greek note said, "Peace and security in the Balkans will be from the outset at stake."

"Admission of Albania would render Greece's position in the United Nations extremely difficult."

Dr. Ali Kuci, resistance leader in the Albanian wartime underground, sent a telegram to the United Nations contending that the "Greek claims on South Albania (Northern Epirus) are unjust and false and the Greeks are waging actually a war of nerves only to mislead world opinion and satisfy their imperialistic designs."

Russia was joined by Poland in support of the Albanian application in the closed meeting of the committee while the United States and Great Britain, both criticizing the current Albanian regime, were represented as keeping an open mind on the question.

"Atrocities" Are Charged

The Greeks reviewed the wartime record of Albania as "a partner in the aggression launched by Fascist Italy against Greece" and said the Albanians turned over all their resources to the Italians and fought with fanaticism with them.

They charged that Albanians became notorious for "ghastly atrocities" against Greek civilians and participated in the German victory parade in Athens. Then they added:

"The persecution of the Greek population was continued under the present regime of Premier Enver Hoxha. Hundreds of Greeks have been deported to Northern Albania, where they are held in concentration camps, while the lists of the imprisoned and executed without even a sham trial are daily growing in alarming proportions. No foreign correspondents or representatives of the International Red Cross have access to the concentration camps or prisons."

"5. As an indispensable part of the foundation for effective government action in controlling inflation, the establishment on a strong consumer organization on a local, state and national basis."

A member of the Advisory Committee told a reporter privately that the group is "working on plans" to create such consumer organizations.

Court Certifies Ex-GIs' Victory In McMinn County

Townpeople Cheer As Veterans' Election Is Declared Valid

ATHENS, Tenn., Aug. 5 (AP)—A courtroom jammed with some 400 ex-servicemen and townspeople resounded with cheers today as the election of five war veterans to McMinn county offices was declared officially valid.

The action by the quarterly court—a limited legislative body composed of justices of the peace, with power to fill vacancies—restored to the county its constitutional government overthrown temporarily in last Thursday's election run battle here.

It also put an end to the ten-year political domination of the local Democratic organization headed by State Sen. Paul Cantrell.

Battle Created New Deal

The new deal in McMinn county politics was created in six hours of shooting on election night between old organization deputies and supporters of the ex-GI ticket who objected to their ballot-counting methods.

Spearheaded by a citizens' interim committee of law and order, the victorious ex-GIs looked on today while the court in special session:

1. Accepted the resignation of Sheriff Pat Mansfield, whose whereabouts is unknown.

2. Received official certification of the election of Knox Henry sheriff, as well as four other ex-GI county officers.

3. Abolished the office of supervisor of county buildings, a $175 per month job which the citizens' committee said was "needless."

Coroner Is Ousted

4. Appointed a three-man committee of two bankers and an industrialist to control all county expenditures until August 31, when a new plan of county finances will be presented.

5. Obtained the ouster of Coroner Bob Dunn, Mansfield's chief deputy, who was declared a court resolution to have engaged in fraudulent election practices.

6. Obtained the resignation of Cantrell himself as chairman of the county court and justice of the peace.

F. A. Davis, an attorney, told the court Cantrell's resignation, relayed by a brother, could not be obtained directly "because we don't know where he is."

New Tremors Shake Dominican Republic

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Aug. 5 (AP)—New earth tremors shook this Caribbean republic today in the wake of Sunday's severe earthquake and tidal wave which left a toll of at least two dead and spread devastation in at least 11 towns.

(A Pan American Airways pilot who flew from Ciudad Trujillo said today in Miami that a fresh quake struck the island republic at 9:20 a. m., E.D.T., and violently shook the control tower at the city's airport. He said he had been told that two towns on the north coast of the Dominican Republic had been completely wiped out by Sunday's quake and tidal wave.)

The government rushed aid and rescue parties to the stricken areas, which lie in the valley south of the Monte Christo range. Efforts to reach the towns by telephone and telegraph were hampered by no available information on how many were injured. Radio communications were interrupted by the tremors and the stricken communities were completely cut off from the outside world for many hours.

Legal Battle Over U. S. Vessel Is Shaping Up

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—The collision-battered United States Lines freighter American Farmer, manned again by an American crew after a British boarding party had been ordered off, limped toward a British port tonight amid a growing international dispute over whether she is a salvage prize.

The British government was asked to intervene in the maritime legal row by the Hudson Shipping Company of Cardiff, which claimed its small freighter Elizabeth, powered by a three-cylinder steam engine, placed a tow-line on the American ship after it had been abandoned following a collision in the Atlantic last week.

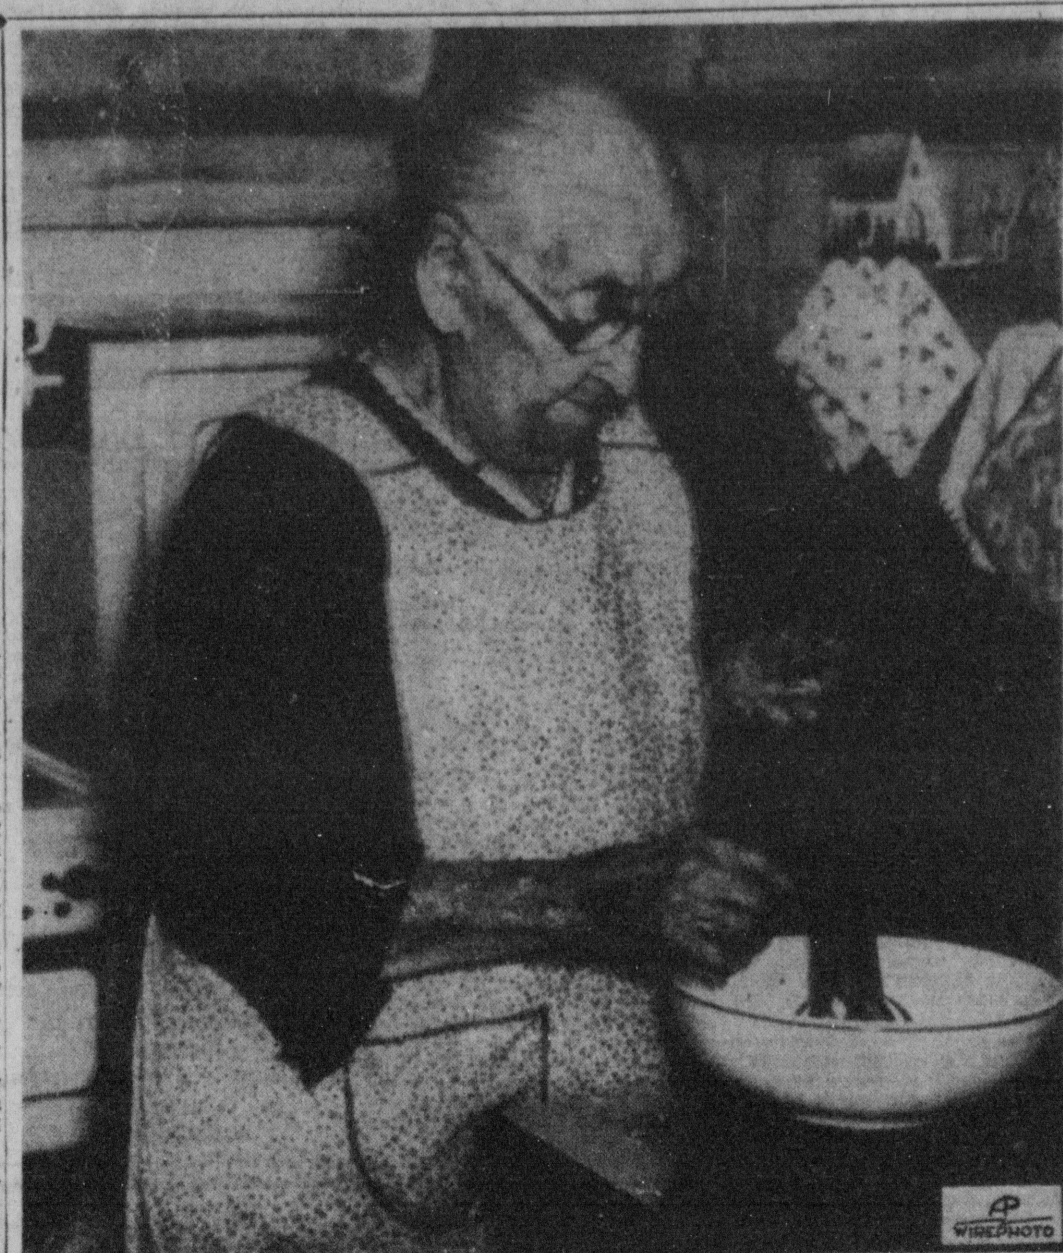

A Hudson official said he called on the British government to uphold the company's claim to ship for salvage after crew from the American Ranger, sister ship of the American Farmer, clambered aboard and ran up the Stars and Stripes in place of the Elizabeth's red banner, flag of the British Merchant Marine.

Navy Planes Collide; Two Reported Killed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Two persons were known dead as the result of a collision of two Navy planes 15 miles north of Patuxent, Md., late today, the Navy announced.

Names of those killed were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

One craft was reported to have just taken off, enroute to the naval air field at Anacostia, Md., near Washington, when the crash occurred.

Admiral Says Leather-necks Will "Shoot Back" If Attacked

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5 (AP)—The marines are staying in China at their present strength of 22,000 to 23,000 men, Admiral Charles M. Cooke, Jr., declared today in answer to speculation concerning the July 29 battle between marines and Chinese Communists.

Cooke, commander of the United States Seventh Fleet which includes the marines in China, told a news conference there had been some "frictions" in marine personnel in the past, but "none are now in process or ordered."

JUDGE CHARGES UNWED DETROIT WOMEN MAKE MOTHERHOOD "RACKET"

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (AP)—Recorder's Judge Arthur E. Gordon charged today that unwed Detroit women are making a "racket" of motherhood by bearing illegitimate children to collect welfare money.

He termed the situation in Detroit not unlike the totalitarian sponsorship of "free love" and suggested that the fathers of illicit offspring be forced to support them.

Attlee Will Ask Cabinet To Study Palestine Issue

Will Decide If Problem Should Be Tossed To United Nations

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee will ask the British Cabinet Wednesday to decide whether the Palestine issue should be referred to the United Nations in the event of American rejection of the joint Cabinet Committee proposal, government sources said today.

The Jewish Agency, Palestine directorate for the Jewish community, announced during a meeting in Paris that it rejected the British-American Cabinet Committee proposal as "unacceptable as a basis for discussion."

Appeals To Ministers

Another group meeting in Paris, calling itself the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, appealed to the Council of Foreign Ministers for permission to represent the Jewish nation at the European Peace Conference. The group dissociated itself completely from the Jewish Agency and said it was "acting pro tempore pending establishment of a provisional Jewish government."

At the same time a strong indication came from the Soviet Union that Russia wanted a voice in the final solution of the pressing Palestine problem, from the point of view that it was a potential menace to world peace. This came in an attack on the partition proposal by a Moscow commentator, the first Soviet

Marines To Stay In China; Battle Is Investigated

Admiral Says Leather-necks Will "Shoot Back" If Attacked

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5 (AP)—The marines are staying in China at the present strength of 22,000 to 23,000 and will "shoot back" if attacked, Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., declared today in answer to speculation concerning the July 29 battle between marines and Chinese Communists.

Cooke, commander of the United States Seventh Fleet which includes the marines in China, told a news conference there had been some reductions in marine personnel in the past, but "none are now in process or ordered."

No Foundation To Rumor
The Chinese Communists, who long have been agitating for withdrawal of the marines, continued their campaign of accusing the marines of new aggressions in North China.

A pro-government newspaper in Nanking published Sunday a rumor that President Truman had ordered Gen. Marshall to prepare plans for withdrawing all American forces from China to avoid further incidents such as that near Peiping July 29, in which Communists ambushed a marine motor convoy and killed four marines and wounded 11.

President Truman's secretary said he knew of no withdrawal order, and Adm. Cooke confirmed that the marines were sticking.

Marine Tasks Remain
Adm. Cooke said the marines were sent to China to aid in repatriating Japanese and assist in restoring stabilized, peaceful conditions.

The British government was asked to intervene in the maritime legal row by the Hudson Shipping Company of Cardiff, which claimed its small freighter Elizabeth, powered by a three-cylinder steam engine, placed a tow-line on the American ship after it had been abandoned following a collision in the Atlantic last week.

A Hudson official said he called on the British government to uphold the company's claim to the ship for salvage after a crew from the American Ranger, sister ship of the American Farmer, clambered aboard and ran up the Stars and Stripes in place of the Elizabeth's red banner, flag of the British Merchant Marine.

JUDGE CHARGES UNWED DETROIT WOMEN MAKE MOTHERHOOD "RACKET"

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (AP)—Recorder's Judge Arthur E. Gordon charged today that unwed Detroit women are making a "racket" of motherhood by bearing illegitimate children to collect welfare money.

He termed the situation in Detroit not unlike the totalitarian sponsorship of "free love" and suggested that the fathers of illicit offspring be forced to support them.

In an interview, the jurist said he has spent weeks in studying cases that have been cleared through his own and other local courts.

Illegitimacy is increasing "at an alarming rate," he declared, and morality in Detroit has reached "its lowest ebb."

"The study showed that there is a definite tendency to put a premium on illegitimacy," Judge Gordon asserted.

Six States Will Have Primary Elections Today
(By The Associated Press)

Six states—Missouri, Virginia, West Virginia, Kansas, New Hampshire and Arkansas—have primary elections today (Tuesday) but it's the Fifth Congressional District in Missouri most people are watching.

There Rep. Roger C. Slaughter is running for the Democratic renomination with the expressed opposition of President Truman who has said that if Slaughter is right in his stand against various administrative policies then he, the President, is wrong.

President Truman endorsed Attorney Enos C. Axtell for the nomination, as did the CIO-PAC and the political machine headed by Jim Pendergast.

The President returned to his independence, Mo., home to vote in the Democratic primary. However, he is not in Slaughter's district.

Further complicating the picture was a request yesterday of Jerome Walsh, third man in the race, for a congressional investigation of spending in the campaign. In a telegram to Speaker Rayburn of the House, Walsh declared both Slaughter and Axtell were attempting "to buy" their way into Congress.

In West Virginia, Democratic Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, seeking renomination with support of the CIO-PAC, is opposed by J. Buhl Shahan, former state purchasing agent. In the Republican race are Thomas Sweeney, Wheeling insurance executive, and Claude R. Hill, Oak Hill Mayor. Both parties also will name candidates for six House seats.

Attlee Will Ask Cabinet To Study Palestine Issue

Will Decide If Problem Should Be Tossed To United Nations

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee will ask the British Cabinet Wednesday to decide whether the Palestine issue should be referred to the United Nations in the event of American rejection of the joint Cabinet Committee partition proposal, government sources said today.

The Jewish Agency, Palestine directorate for the Jewish community, announced during a meeting in Paris that it rejected the American Cabinet Committee proposal as "unacceptable as a basis for discussion."

Appeals To Ministers
Another group meeting in Paris, calling itself the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, appealed to the Council of Foreign Ministers for permission to represent the Hebrew nation at the European Peace Conference. The group disassociated itself completely from the Jewish Agency and said it was "acting pro tempore pending establishment of a provisional Hebrew government."

At the same time a strong indication came from the Soviet Union that Russia wanted a voice in the final solution of the pressing Palestine problem, from the point of view that it was a potential menace to world peace. This came in an attack on the partition proposal by a Moscow commentator, the first Soviet pronouncement on the plan.

Hinges On Truman Action
British government sources said Prime Minister Attlee would ask the cabinet to examine the Palestine problem in all its aspects, whether the issue should be placed before the United Nations General Assembly. But in any event, these sources said, the issue would be referred to the United Nations only if President Truman flatly rejected the joint Cabinet Committee proposal to divide Palestine into federally ruled Arab and Jewish provinces.

President Truman has called home his Palestine negotiators from London for consultation, and while he has not expressed himself on the plan publicly, it has been reported in Washington that he was not fully satisfied with it.

Coast Guard Receives SOS From Fishing Boat
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 5 (AP)—The Coast Guard reported late today that it had received a SOS from the fishing boat Mary Bell saying it was "sinking fast" 45 miles south of San Clemente Island. The boat carried a crew of 12.

The Navy immediately dispatched two destroyers and three cutters to the scene, about 40 miles northwest from here. The Coast Guard also sent a cutter and two planes.

The planes after arriving at the position given by the Mary Bell radioed to Coast Guard headquarters that they had not sighted a ship nor any wreckage. The search was being continued.

Tanker, Hit By Lightning, Is Set Afire

Three Crewmen Are Missing; Vessel Was Unloading Gasoline

JACKSON, Fla., Aug. 5 (AP)—Three men remained unaccounted for tonight following a fire which swept the 10,000-ton tanker Homestead after it was struck by lightning while unloading gasoline at the Standard Oil Company docks here.

Thirty members of the ship's crew of 49 were treated at a hospital here for burns and cuts but only one was hurt severely enough to require overnight hospitalization. He was Marion J. Atkins, Nashville, Ga.

Capt. Maurice A. Tunstall, Hopkinsville, Ky., 28-year-old skipper of the Homestead, said two members of the crew and a dock watchman still were missing more than six hours after the ill-fated tanker was racked by five explosions from its partially-filled gasoline reservoirs.

Engineer Searched Ship
Tunstall said the missing were Jack Bowman, a seaman from Georgia, and a messman named Duckworth, and a new crew member who had just reported to the ship for duty.

Lt. Comdr. Stanley J. Halka, Long Beach, Calif., first engineer and last man to leave the ship, said he made a search of the smoke-filled craft before jumping into the water and was unable to find any other crew members aboard.

Halka said the Homestead was rocked by four closely-spaced explosions after lightning struck the docked ship during an afternoon thunderstorm. A fifth explosion came about 30 minutes later, he reported.

Dense black smoke and fire filled the ship after the second explosion, Halka said, although all available fire apparatus was in operation only a few moments after the flames broke out.

"Terrific" Blast
The first engineer described the first blast as "terrific" and said succeeding explosions were "a lot worse than the first."

Many of the crewmen leaped into the gasoline-soaked water and swam to safety. Others were rescued in rowboats brought up near the tanker as the flames would permit.

Capt. Tunstall said the Homestead had 600 barrels of gasoline in her holds when an eight-inch struck. The ship has a capacity of 128,000 barrels.

He estimated the loss in both ship and cargo at $3,500,000.

Big Army Plane Crashes On Experimental Flight
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5 (AP)—A huge Douglas C-74 four-engine Army cargo plane on an experimental flight, crashed and burned today near suburban Torrance after all four crew members, Douglas employees, parachuted safely.

Russell K. Thaw, the pilot, was reported to have suffered a slight neck injury, a Douglas representative said, but the other three crew members were uninjured. They were: George Jensen, co-pilot; Chris Nielsen, flight engineer; and H. H. Lane, observer.

The Globemaster plane last week carried an over-all load of 172,000 pounds, more than twice its own weight and the greatest weight ever known to leave the earth under airplane power. Today's flight was in continuation of the same tests. The plane had a wingspread of 173 feet and a length of 124 feet and its four engines developed 3,000 horsepower each. Douglas said it could circle the earth with only two stops.

37 Persons Are Hurt When Bus Overturns
CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—At least 37 persons were injured, most of them slightly, when a New York-to-Chicago Greyhound bus skidded on a South Side drive tonight and overturned on an adjacent Lake Michigan beach.

The bus crashed during a rain shower through a curb barrier and plunged down a shallow embankment to the sandy beach with 40 or more passengers.

Steelman Halls Awarding Of Public Works Contracts For 56-Day Period
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—In an announced drive to head off inflation, Reconversion Director John R. Steelman today halted the awarding of contracts under a $1,600,000,000 public works program. The moratorium is to be effective for 56 days with limited exceptions.

No government agency can award a contract from August 6 to October 1 without Steelman's expressed permission. During this period the works program is to be revised and shaped by $100,000,000.

Steelman said in a statement that the "federal government has an inescapable responsibility to postpone all but the most urgent projects while the present dangerous inflationary pressure exists."

Steelman's order put formally into effect an anti-inflation measure announced by President Truman over the weekend in his revision of the federal budget.

The director postponed rather than cancelled completely the awarding of contracts. It will delay construction of some projects like post offices, and other public buildings, roads, flood control and river and harbor improvements.

Steelman's statement said he also urged agencies making loans or grants to states or cities for public works construction to seek postponement "wherever this can be done without jeopardizing health, safety for essential services."

Long Debate Fails To End In Agreement

Russia Challenges U. S., Britain To Stand By Two-Thirds Rule

PARIS, Tuesday, Aug. 6 (AP)—The European Peace Conference Rules Committee adjourned its night meeting today after a long debate had failed to achieve an accord on Russia's challenge to the United States and Great Britain to stand by the Foreign Ministers Council decision on the two-thirds voting rule for the conference.

V. M. Molotov, Soviet Foreign Minister, contended that if the British and American delegates would hold fast to the two-thirds rule, they thus would demonstrate they would feel bound by other decisions of the Big Four.

Chairman Paul-Henri Spaak, of Belgium, banged his gavel at the end of the third successive committee session in the last few hours with five more delegates still listed to speak on provisions to restrict conference decisions to two-thirds majority votes.

Hector McNeill formally presented a British amendment which would allow simple majority conference decisions to go to the Foreign Ministers' Council for final approval or rejection.

First Night Session
During the peace parley's first night session, the British amendment appeared to be gaining ground as several delegations declared their support of it, either outright or as a second choice.

Dr. Herbert V. Ewart, Australian Foreign Minister, opened the night meeting by plunging into his earlier arguments for adoption of the simple majority rule, asserting that democracy in action comes from a "willingness to accept in good faith the opinion of others."

"This, he declared, Molotov and others were apparently unable to do.

Meanwhile, a French spokesman said all members of the Big Four were agreed that an agreement by a simple majority of the conference would be sent to the foreign ministers.

Under the British amendment, he explained, simple majority decisions would be forwarded "automatically" to the ministers, while under proposals presented by Russia and France, the states concerned would have to request the Council for a decision.

During yesterday's afternoon session, Molotov accused both the United States and Britain of inconsistencies, and then offered his counterproposal to the British amendment, which was designed to increase the voice of the smaller nations.

French Proposal Amended
Immediately the French proposed another amendment as a compromise between the British view, supported by the Americans and several small nations, and the Russian counterproposal. Only a slight difference separated the three proposals.

The British amendment provided that actions of a simple majority would be taken up by the Big Four along with those adopted by a two-thirds vote, but would carry less weight.

The Russian proposal would permit Council consideration of recommendations which failed, but stipulated these must be referred to the Council by the states voting for them rather than by the conference itself.

The French compromise proposal provided that a recommendation which failed to receive a two-thirds majority could be presented to the Big Four at the request of the order are.

Projects costing no more than $3,000.

New construction already under way or scheduled to begin by October 1 under contracts already signed.

The report on communicable diseases lists three cases of measles, seven venereal cases and one each of pneumonia, scarlet fever, and tuberculosis. Sixteen cases of venereal disease and 90 old cases are being treated at the city clinic. Listed as cured were 13 persons who had a venereal disease.

Moorehead, Wilson Found Not Guilty

PIEDMONT, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Two Piedmont men, one who was reportedly shot while fleeing from police, were found "not guilty" of disorderly conduct charges tonight when they were given a hearing before Mayor Harold Fredlock in City Hall.

The men, Melvin Moorehead, and Woodrow Wilson, were arrested July 24 when they allegedly created a disturbance after being put out of the Moose home. They were reported to have kicked at the door and then when the police were called fled down the street.

Police said they ordered the men to halt and when they refused they began firing into the air. One of the bullets glanced off a wire and wounded Moorehead in the left shoulder, police said.

In testimony presented tonight by H. G. Shores and Howard P. Shores, counsel for the defendants, it was charged that Charles Chaney, Moose bartender, struck Moorehead with a mace. Chaney admitted striking one of the men, but said he wasn't sure which man he hit.

H. G. Shores indicated that "not guilty" verdict was given that Moorehead would enter suit, but refused to say if it would involve the city, or the Moose Club.

Undergarment Company Requests Co-operation

The position of the Cumberland Undergarment Company toward the strike which halted production at the Gay street plant about a week ago was placed before officials and citizens of this city in a full page advertisement in a local newspaper yesterday.

Lester S. Milberg, president, said the firm intends to employ about 550 girls in the present structure and later to add another 400 employees for a payroll of over $1,000.

The company official said the company has had no strikes or work stoppages at any of its five affiliated plants in the last 12 years. The piece work rates which precipitated the stoppage were, he added, under survey by a ILOUW time study engineer. Rates in effect at the plant would permit a girl with normal ability to earn from $30 to $40 a week he added.

Milberg further pointed out that the company loses about $200 training each girl and that the plant would lose about $100,000 during its first two years of existence.

After pointing out that the plant does not have to remain here since the local communities have made attractive offers such as free land and buildings, Milberg asked co-operation last the new industry be driven away from Cumberland.

Lawyer Files Contempt Action To Get Fee

Julius E. Schindler, Cumberland attorney, has filed a petition in circuit court asking that Elwood Harden be required to pay $400 in contempt of court for allegedly failing to pay a counsel fee to the attorney as directed by the court.

Schindler represents Mary E. Harden in a bill of complaint filed against Harden on May 17, and Harden was ordered to pay Schindler counsel fee of $40.

On June 29, a hearing was held on a petition citing Harden for contempt for failure to pay the fee, but he was purged of contempt on condition that he pay the attorney $5 weekly.

Schindler says, however, that Harden has "failed and refused" to make the payments.

Associate Judge Walter C. Copper ordered Harden to appear in court at 10 a. m. August 15 to show cause why he should not be sentenced.

Water consumption for last week amounted to 79,800,000 gallons as compared to 77,540,000 for the same period last year. Daily average water consumption was 11,400,000 compared to 11,077,000 last year. The water in Lake Gordon is two feet four inches below the spillway and in Lake Koon is one foot, two inches below.

Officers Seek Clues In Strangle-Killing

Kries, of Baltimore Detective Bureau, said today a search here for relatives of a man tentatively identified by Delaware police as Edward Franklin Schumacher, Baltimore, whose strangled and "horribly battered" body was found on a beach near Lewes, Del., has so far been unsuccessful.

Kries reported to Delaware authorities that neither Schumacher nor his former roommate here, now being held for questioning by Delaware authorities, have police records. Meanwhile, Delaware police continued to search a sandy field near the ocean for clues in the strangle-killing.

Advice To The Lovelorn

She Wants to Keep One Man Waiting Until She Decides About Another

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love And Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in love with two boys, or at least I think so.

One is in the merchant marine, and the other a civilian. The one in the merchant marine was the first one I met, and I was in love with him. When he left to go overseas, he asked me to wait, but since then, I have fallen in love with the civilian. This second one knows about the first one, and that he is coming back to the States in four months. He has asked me to marry him this month, but I'm afraid. I want to wait and see the one in the merchant marine before saying anything.

Should I do this, or go ahead and marry the civilian? I have been going steady with him for three months.

D. B. B.

Anyone who thinks she's in love with two men at once isn't likely to be really in love with either of them, D. B. B. Being in love means that you just can't see anybody but the one on whom you have set your heart.

If you don't like the one here at home well enough to say "yes" without waiting to look somebody else over, and if you don't like the one who's overseas sufficiently to know without any doubt that he's the boy for you, then you aren't ready to marry either one.

Far better to stay single until you can make up your mind without asking me or anyone else what to do.

Maybe It's Not "A Clear Conscience"

He Wants, But Just His Freedom

I am 19 years old, soon will be 20, and very much in love with a boy who just turned 18. I have been out with him a few times and I think he likes me very much, and I know there is nobody but him for me. He is still in the service and expects to get out soon.

The late date I had with him, he got fresh with me. I didn't give him a chance at that, and of course he made it an excuse to be mad. But he really wasn't.

The people I work with know I love him, and every time they see him they try to get together again. But he gives all kinds of excuses, and when they tell me, I know it is a lie, because every chance I get to talk to him, he seems to tell me different. I believe he is jealous because I work with men.

I heard that the reason he doesn't ask me to go out again is because he says I won't go out with him.

FALSE TEETH

Looseness and Worry

No longer be annoyed or feel ill at ease because of loose, wobbly false teeth. FASTER, an improved alkaline (non-acid) powder, sprinkled on your plates holds them down so they feel more comfortable. Soothing and cooling to gums made sore by excessive acid mouth. Avoid embarrassment caused by loose plates. Get FASTER today at any drug store.

—Advertisement—

I told him what I heard, and he says he just wants to go back to the service with a clear conscience. What did he mean?

"In Love In Vain."

I'm rather inclined to believe that he meant he wanted to go back to the service entirely free of "entanglements." And I believe, too, that you'd be wise to stop kidding yourself into thinking you might be able to get him interested in you.

If it was your friendship he wanted, instead of a passing flirtation, he'd have been back with an apology after you slapped him down for being "fresh," instead of keeping away from you after that.

I'm afraid it's not jealousy that keeps him away but just plain indifference. Why not be smart, and give him a little of the same?

Quiz For Marylanders

By QUENTIN HOWE

Answer to Question 1:

The late Jervis Spencer was not only the greatest racing Commissioner Maryland ever had but, by a vote of turf experts, the greatest racing Commissioner in the United States. Spencer was a horseman, fox hunter, a gentleman rider who five times won the Maryland Hunt Cup. At Pimlico a Stake Race has been named in his honor, the only Stake Race in the world named for a Racing Commissioner.

Answer to Question 2:

The greatest contribution to Maryland racing is made by the horsemen who bring their horses to Maryland and the Public who attends the racing in Maryland. Without them, there could be no racing in Maryland. The politicians contribute nothing to racing. Maryland's intelligent legislators can and will contribute to Maryland racing by fostering wise and thoughtful racing laws which will not kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, but which will foster high class racing in Maryland so that Maryland can hold its own against the 20 other States that now have racing. Their good efforts will offset politicians whose ignorance of Maryland's favorite sport is harming racing in Maryland.

land's favorite sport is harming racing in Maryland.

Answer to Question 3:
The proof that the Maryland Jockey Club believes that the public and the horseman come first is the fact Pimlico offers the finest stakes possible to attract horsemen to Maryland and gives the Maryland public some of the finest horse racing in the United States. After paying taxes to Annapolis and Washington, the Maryland Jockey Club is left with less than 2 per cent for dividends, and often has to open its next race meeting on borrowed money.

Airshow Proves Outstanding Event

If the thousands who attended the airshow Sunday are any criterion, then Cumberland is certainly air-minded. The show proved to be everything that had been said for it in advance, and the interest shown far exceeded the expectations of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, which sponsored the event.

The Jaycees are to be congratulated for their undertaking, both from a civic standpoint, because it brought so many visitors to Cumberland for their first glimpse of our splendid airport, and because it went a long way toward helping those who are chary of flying to see at first hand most convincing demonstrations of the ease and safety by which planes are flown. It should make it much easier for those unable to make up their minds whether they would rather fly or do their traveling by ground methods of transportation to come to a decision.

The show was not without some misgivings although of no fault of those sponsoring the event. The narrowness of the approach to the road leading to the airport bottlenecked the smooth movement of the thousands of cars, and the patience of motorists was lashed to the slow pace at which they were required to travel. State Police of Maryland and West Virginia, stationed at intervals along the roadway leading out of the city proper, however, did a splendid job under this handicap, and are to be congratulated that so great a mass of humanity was handled without serious mishap. Much credit also is due the Jaycees in soothing the ruffled feelings of the motorists, once they reached the road leading into the airport, by their parking arrangements and the swiftness in carrying them out. It was one of those situations that might be expected under unusual circumstances that are, in the most part, few and far between.

But whatever inconvenience was encountered was more than compensated for by the splendid events gathered together by the Jaycees for so complete a program. The civic accomplishment achieved, which after all is the major thought and purpose of the Association, is gratifying, while the great outpouring of people capped its efforts and made the exhibit the success it was.

Life in the country is what you make it—in the city, what you make.

Fear of Punishment Or Hope of Reward

There's always been quite a dispute over which was the greatest motive force in human conduct: the fear of punishment or the hope of reward.

To read some of the popular advertisements, there isn't much doubt as to what answer the sales experts have selected. They harp strongly on the fear angle.

Mary, for example, was always a wall flower. No dates, no dances. The truth (very tactfully revealed) was that Mary smelled uninvitingly. Then, presto change! Mary started using the right soap and now she's the life of the party.

John couldn't get a job; his high hopes were dashed after the first interview. But now—since he cured that unpleasant breath—he spends all his spare time figuring his income surtax.

The girls laughed at Charlie, but they all fell for Bill. Finally somebody told Charlie that he had patent-leather hair. Since he switched to pomades he almost needs a social secretary.

Mother was irritable at the breakfast table, quarreled with Father and sent the children off to school crying. All because she didn't realize that at middle age she needed a mild laxative. Since she found out, home is a haven of love.

Lena had dishpan hands and the girls at the bridge party looked down their noses at her—but after taking to the right kind of soap flakes everybody loves to touch them.

These small, homely "fear appeal" ads have grown to new stature. Suddenly the fear technique has become an instrument of government.

Back right after V-J Day, the country was threatened with eight million unemployed—if Congress didn't suddenly pass the so-called Full Employment bill. Unless the OWI were continued, all the world would misunderstand and dislike us. Economic collapse has lurked around the corner every time it has been proposed that any bureau be curtailed or eliminated.

And as for OPA, every conceivable calamity of inflation and economic torture has been predicted unless it continued in just the form Mr. Bowles and his followers advocated.

Peril lurks these days on every page of the newspaper and every twist of the radio dial. The fear of punishment is being worked overtime to scare the American people into doing what the political wizards think they ought to do.

We wish some of the smart ad men would leave the government and get back to their soaps, pomades and deodorants.

Getting upstage is a very good way to keep out of the spotlight.

Animal Is Proven Not So Smart

A University of Chicago professor, Dr. Wilton M. Krogman, says the strain of standing erect and walking on two legs causes many of the aches and pains suffered by mankind.

Without fear of successful contradiction, we predict that man won't get down on all fours again to cure his vertebrae, backache, or any of the other ailments mentioned by the professor.

In other respects, however, he's often willing to go back to his old ways to relieve himself of the pains of progress.

Because democracy has faults, the peoples of many lands have sold themselves down the river to one-man rule, the most ancient form of government.

Because capitalism has faults, many persons would try forms of economic organization that have been tried time and again in the past without nearly so much success as capitalism has achieved.

Because the machine sometimes causes temporary dislocations, some men oppose each new application of the thing that has brought mankind the highest standard of living it has ever known.

You doubtless can think of other examples. When you're through, you'll wonder if man is such a smart animal after all.

GOITERS—SIMPLE AND TOXIC

THE bobby soxer probably has never given her thyroid gland a second thought. The same cannot be said of her grandmother, for two generations ago a goiter was a common occurrence. Since the organ is located in the front of the neck, the swelling was often unsightly and—well, you know what that means to a young girl.

The difference is iodine. Minute amounts in the diet are sufficient to check the disorder. Those living in the goiter belt had an inadequate quantity and here it was observed most frequently. Modern transportation now brings food to these localities from all over; and certain staples, like salt, have been fortified with the element.

Enlargements of this sort are seldom serious. As a rule, the bulge is first noticed during puberty and represents an attempt by the gland to adjust to the changes taking place elsewhere in the body at this time of life. There are no symptoms and the breathing test (basal metabolism determination) usually gives a normal or low reading. Iodine is usually given but even if nothing is done, shrinkage is likely as full maturity is reached.

When the organ not only increases in size but contains hard masses, the abnormality is known as "nodular goiter." As in the simple type, no discomfort is present unless the growth presses on neighboring structures. If the windpipe is encroached upon, choking, a sense of constriction, or hoarseness may be noted. Should extension beneath the breastbone take place, an inward goiter is said to exist. In this spot, the enlargement is more difficult to see or feel and, unless X-rays are taken, may be missed.

Iodine may bring improvement but the physician prefers to examine these patients periodically as this variety is a potential bad actor especially between the ages of 40 and 50. The chief trouble is that should the gland go berserk and manufacture too much secretion, the entire system could be poisoned.

When this occurs, a new set of symptoms begins to appear gradually. The victim is more nervous than usual and is restless, sensitive, and irritable. The pulse becomes rapid and occasionally the heart pounds. The appetite is affected also and, even though the diet is adequate, weight loss and weakness ensue.

The metabolism test reveals a marked increase. The furnace is going at such a clip that no longer will food supply the demand. Consequently, the individual burns his own tissues. It is little wonder that the skin is warm and tremors of the hands, tongue, and feet are exhibited. Should this continue, other organs become involved. Sometimes the manifestations subside only to recur at a later date.

Removal of the gland is usually curative. More recently, certain medication have threatened to do the job easier. Thiothiuric, one such preparation, is used mainly in conjunction with surgery. In some cases, only the drug is required but caution is necessary as it can be toxic. An improved product may be the answer in the future. Radioactive iodine likewise has great promise. As yet physicians have not had sufficient experience with either to state definitely whether surgery is no longer needed. But we should know within a relatively short period.

MOTHER PINCHES CHILD

M. E. writes: Is it true that pinching the arm will form the nucleus of cancer? I know a mother who practices this on her child.

REPLY

Altho constant irritation is a cause of cancer in certain areas of the body, I doubt if pinching the arm for fun will lead to the disorder. It might, however, damage the muscle fibers.

NOT TOO LONG

M. E. writes: How long should a man of 70 with high blood pressure stay in the sun for a sun bath?

REPLY

Ten to 15 minutes is usually sufficient. If it is cool or the wind is brisk, longer exposures are allowed than on hot sultry days. With your pressure and age, it is the heat rather than the sun that must be guarded against.

DROOPING LID

Mrs. A. G. writes: My child was born with a slightly drooping left eye. She is now 4 months old. Should anything be done at present?

REPLY

The condition is usually amenable to surgery, but I would suggest that you consult an eye surgeon as to the proper procedure in your child's case.

Secret Sessions Held Behind Scene at Paris Conference; British Report Russia Selling Captured German Arms to Sweden For Resale to Argentina.

By DREW PEARSON

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(By Wire)—Despite Secretary Byrnes' new, laudable policy of open covenants openly arrived at, some highly important meetings have been taking place behind the scenes at the peace conference here. For obvious reasons certain things have to be discussed in secret. Here are some of them:

Session No. 1—Byrnes got a report via the British Foreign Office that Russia was secretly selling captured German arms to Sweden for resale to Argentina. This by no means made him happy. The United States has followed a strict policy of keeping arms away from Fascist Argentina, and only one month ago, Argentina Chief of Staff General Carlos von der Becke made a special trip to see General Eisenhower to plead for arms. Eisenhower said no. Now it develops that Russia is gathering up arms from occupied Germany and handing them over to Sweden for resale to Argentina on the excuse that it needs foreign exchange. Byrnes, in planning a formal protest in writing against this, also plans to take the matter up with Molotov personally.

Secret session No. 2—Molotov has been trying to argue with Jimmie Byrnes into giving permanent and official recognition of Latvia's, Lithuania's and Estonia's incorporation into the Soviet. In one session, Molotov told Jimmie that Churchill and Roosevelt both had given the nod to these three Baltic states as part of Russia. The FOR-WINER OK, he said, was given at Tehran and Yalta. Byrnes, however, didn't want to recognize the Baltic states as yet.

Secret session No. 3—Between Byrnes and France's handsome, pink-cheeked Foreign Minister Bidault. Byrnes has been trying to persuade Bidault to join the U. S. A. and the United Kingdom in unifying Germany. But the Frenchman has been stubborn. Like Attlee, he is in a trading mood and has declined to agree to unification of Germany unless—and this is a big unless—France gets two concessions:

1) More territory from Italy.

2) Complete French control of the Saar Valley, with its rich coal deposits plus the industrially wealthy Rhineland.

Obviously Jimmie Byrnes, good as a trader as he may be, can't trade away these points, because they have to be decided by the rest of the conference. The tragic fact is that while the delegates barter and haggle, conditions in Germany are drifting dangerously—so dangerously that unification may come too late.

Senator La Guardia?

The ex-mayor of New York, otherwise known as The Little Flower, enjoyed everything about Paris while stopping here except the fact that the Paris fire department didn't stage a fire. Asked whether he would run for the U. S. Senate from New York, La Guardia indicated that, if nominated, he would run like a fire engine.

"Ed Flynn," he was told, "is blocking you. I don't blame him," chuckled Fiorelli. "Do you?"

Molotov Cocktail

The hard-hitting, mercurial Foreign Minister of Russia has changed his tactics a lot since the United Nations Conference at San Francisco. Also, since the Council of Foreign Ministers in London last September.

At San Francisco he jumped all over the smaller nations. He was bitterly sarcastic with Mexico's Foreign Minister Padilla, accused him of learning "his little speech" in advance to support the United States. Result: All Latin American nations were alienated and lined up with the anti-Russian bloc.

At Paris, Molotov is playing his cards more carefully. Perhaps he realizes that public opinion has crystallized against Russia. At any rate, instead of hurling Molotov cocktails when things went against him, he has been outwardly patient and calm. He leans over backward to explain Russia's position. When he saw the votes were stacked against him on the question of public committee meetings, Molotov immediately jumped on the opposition bandwagon. He seconded Byrnes' motion that the press be admitted. On important questions, of course, Molotov doesn't budge an inch. But at least he has learned to be more polite about them.

Around The Peace Table

The Chinese Ambassador sits during Conference sessions awaiting a large Japanese fan. It's warm in the Luxembourg Palace. Lined up on the very front Conference row are Australia's Evatt and America's Byrnes, most dynamic of all delegates. They got their seats alphabetically, though the French stretched a point to have Byrnes sit in front. Strictly speaking, he should sit under Etats Unis (United States), not Amerique (America).

White Russia missed its cue from Molotov and voted wrong on one ballot. Reason was that White Russia, listed as Belorussia, comes near the top of the roll call alphabetically, so its delegate didn't have time to get the nod from the Russian delegation.

Canada also voted wrong on one ballot—for Russia and against the British Empire. This was when Czechoslovakia's Jan Masaryk proposed two rotating chairmen of the Rules Committee, one Yugoslav (pro-Russian) and one Belgian (anti-Russian). Premier Mackenzie King supported this straddle, though the U. S., Britain and all the other members of the British Empire opposed. This Czech straddle on the chairmanship is significant of the hole the Czechs are in. They have to go along with Russia because their bread is buttered on that side, but their instincts are with the U. S. A. and the United Kingdom. After all, Masaryk was raised in England and the United States.

Friendly Enemies

One indication of how badly this conference was organized: When the peace treaties for the Axis satellites finally were made public only twenty copies were available to several hundred American newsmen. Some newsmen, such as the Greeks and Chinese, didn't get a single copy. Though the general content of the treaties was well known to the enemy countries, the first things Bulgaria and Italy did was to let out a loud squawk. The real fact, however, is that both got off better than the others, for a very significant reason. They had two powerful friends at court. Italy's friend was the U. S. A. Bulgaria's friend was the U. S. S. R. Russia, for instance, asked that Bulgaria pay no reparations, while from Italy she demanded $500,000,000. Thanks to Jimmie Byrnes, this was scaled down to $100,000,000.

Thus Italy, one of the original Axis powers, which started the world on the path of war in Ethiopia even before Hitler went on the rampage, pays less reparations than Finland, Hungary or Romania. Incidentally, Italy pays no reparations to Ethiopia despite the fact that she ravished that country in one of the most shameful conquests in history. The treaty only provides that Italy pay Ethiopia for damaged works of art. Greece, another country wantonly invaded by Mussolini, also gets no stated reparations pay-

Missouri Guinea Pig In Democrat Vs CIO-PAC Fight

By MARK SULLIVAN

With the adjournment of Congress last Friday, Kansas City, Missouri replaced Washington, D. C., as the center of the country's domestic interests. For in nine wards of that city, and in neighboring Washington Township and Jackson County, President Truman is engaged in personal political battle with a young lawyer and Congressman, Roger Caldwell Slaughter.

Congressman Slaughter is a running opponent for re-nomination in his party primary. Mr. Truman is opposing him. Mr. Truman's opposition is conspicuous. He took the initiative, personally intervened with Democratic leaders in Missouri to prevent the re-nomination, publicly endorsed an opponent, Elmer A. Astell. This opponent is likewise endorsed by the CIO Political Action Committee.

Because of all this the contest is called a test case. As Mr. Slaughter puts it, "this district is the guinea pig to decide whether the Democrats have the CIO Political Action Committee going to control the Democratic Party."

The attitude of Congressman Slaughter as one opposed by the President, and the attitude of Democrats generally, is in strange contrast with the attitude of those who in this Missouri district are Mr. Truman's allies, and who on a national scale are engaged in what Democrats consider to be a struggle for control of the party Mr. Truman heads. In the public sight and hearing, CIO leaders allude to Mr. Truman in terms which not only condemn public actions of his but include harsh personal allusions.

Not having "destined" fortune, the head of the Political Action Committee in New York City, presiding at a public meeting called to condemn President Truman's action about the railroad strike, was quoted as pledging himself to prevent "any honest man from voting for the President's re-election. At the same meeting members of a CIO union carried banners saying "Down with Truman and all labor haters in Congress." At the same meeting one of the speakers was a railroad union head who on several occasions had denounced Mr. Truman in terms of almost ferocity. Such utterances are reported in newspapers, go out over the radio.

Says Truman Prisoner Of CIO This condition accounts for a phrase by Mr. Slaughter. He says that Mr. Truman is the "prisoner"

ments from Italy. Greek damages will be a matter for conference debate. In other words, the United States fought Italy's battles in secret Big Four sessions right 'own the line and despite the gnashing of teeth by the Italian Prime Minister, she got off much better than expected.

NOTE—Enemy delegates are given hotel space and automobiles by the French Government in Paris as they wait impatiently to sign the final documents of peace. The only courtesy denied them is flying their country's flag on the hotel which they occupy.

World Court Plan As Accepted By U. S. and Its Bearing On Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Times certainly have changed. With but a few hours of debate, the United States Senate pledged this country to submit its disputes to a world court and agreed to abide by the judgment of that court in all legal matters excepting those which might be considered purely domestic.

Anyone who has followed the long history of the Senate's handling of the problem of American entry into a world court cannot but rub his eyes to make sure that he isn't dreaming. For, coming back to the earliest days of the Republican administrations of McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt and Taft, there was a decided sentiment in the Republican party in favor of arbitration of international disputes through a court of international justice. This was blocked repeatedly, however, by a nationalistic view of the Republican-Democratic coalition which caused the Senate to refuse again and again to ratify arbitration treaties.

Then came the era of the League of Nations when the World Court was tied into the League. President Harding said he favored the World Court but the Republican party did not follow him, and a combination of Democrats and Republicans in the Senate continued to block the proposal. The effort was renewed by President Coolidge but it failed again. Finally under President Hoover the resolution was amended in such confused fashion that it never became materialized because, when other nations amended to conform to the Senate's interpretation, a dispute arose as to the meaning.

Another attempt was made by President Franklin Roosevelt but the Senate, on January 29, 1935, defeated the resolution of ratification after the matter had lain dormant since 1930.

Last week a new proposal to accept the verdict of the world court set up by the United Nations went through the U. S. Senate by a vote of 60 to 2. This was more than the necessary two-thirds. Senators absent or on leave would not have changed the result had they been present.

The significance of the step cannot be overestimated. America is really the first major power to join the World Court with a definite statement accepting compulsory jurisdiction in the new institution on a wide variety of cases. Thus the United States accepts the court's right to hear and decide questions involving "interpretation of a treaty; any question of international law; the existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of an international obligation; and the nature or extent of the reparation to be made for the breach of an international obligation."

The foregoing are what long have been known as "justiciable" questions. In the early debates of this century on a world court, President Taft said he would be willing to have the United States arbitrate or submit to a world court all "justiciable" questions as distinguished from those affecting "national honor." Only in later years has it become clear that, irrespective of what might be called a question of "national honor," there was a field of judicial determination and that this concerned purely legal questions.

Republicans Long Advocated Step What the U. S. Senate has done is to pass at last without equivocation the resolution which was advocated over a long span of years by such Republican statesmen as John Hay, Elihu Root, Charles Evans Hughes, Henry L. Stimson, Frank B. Kellogg—all of whom served as secretary of state. It also had in subsequent years the earnest support of Cordell Hull, secretary of state in Democratic administrations, and of his successors—Messrs. Stettinius and Byrnes.

The United States Senate has always had a clear majority in favor of the principle of a world court but not until last week was the necessary two-thirds forthcoming.

The importance of the action lies in the fact that in neither political party today does a sufficient minority exist which can form a coalition to block a proposal of foreign policy that is definitely related to the maintenance of peace.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Time runs smoothly along, no matter what happens. War and peace are the same to it. All varieties of flowers are the same today as when we first learned their names in our youth. Gold, precious stones and all the elements that make up this earth do not mind the passing of time. They remain the same, excepting in the quality of their purity. That varies.

Man has made use of things that have advanced civilization, and many new discoveries have been gained to man's advantage, but he hasn't changed fundamentally. His viewpoints and his ideas, however, do change. Things he once loved, or thought he wanted, later he does not love and does not want. Time is the same, yesterday, today, and forever—it's our moods and personal selections that keep changing all the time.

After long years away, a return to the place of our birth, or our early home, gives us a distinct surprise. It isn't what we remember—experiences. Something has dropped out. Time's passing does something to our vision. Perhaps there is something to the notion, as some suspect, that we change our personality every so often—some say every seven years. The fact remains, however, that we either tire or our mental processes do something to us that makes us see new light to old things.

We are enriched, nevertheless, by continual contact with those friends or those books that keep feeding us mentally and spiritually. They keep changing us into better and more intelligent human beings. Time's passing only adds richness to the experience that they offer.

Maturity usually brings on tolerance to us. We see the justice in universal good, and learn the foolishness of snobbery and high-handedness. We also gain a new regard for the Golden Rule, a rule that, were it adopted universally, would put an end to all strife and all wars and bring to us the ideal of a One World, here and now.

We ought to do more with ourselves as time goes on. Be ourselves more, and less some Tom, Dick, or Harry. As a human entity, what possibilities lie within the shell of each one of us!

Airshow Proves Outstanding Event

If the thousands who attended the airshow Sunday are any criterion, then Cumberland is certainly air-minded. The show proved to be everything that had been said for it in advance, and the interest shown far exceeded the expectations of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, which sponsored the event.

The Jaycees are to be congratulated for their undertaking, both from a civic standpoint, because it brought so many visitors to Cumberland for their first glimpse of our splendid airport, and because it went a long way toward helping those who are chary of flying to see at first hand most convincing demonstrations of the ease and safety by which planes are flown. It should make it much easier for those unable to make up their minds whether they would rather fly or do their traveling by ground methods of transportation to come to a decision.

The show was not without some misgivings although of no fault of those sponsoring the event. The narrowness of the approach to the road leading to the airport bottlenecked the smooth movement of the thousands of cars, and the patience of motorists was irked no end by the slow pace at which they were required to travel. State Police of Maryland and West Virginia, stationed at intervals along the roadway leading out of the city proper, however, did a splendid job under this handicap, and are to be congratulated that so great a mass of humanity was handled without serious mishap. Much credit also is due the Jaycees in soothing the ruffled feelings of the motorists, once they reached the road leading into the airport, by their parking arrangements and the swiftness in carrying them out. It was one of those situations that might be expected under unusual circumstances that are, in the most part, few and far between.

But whatever inconvenience was encountered was more than compensated for by the splendid events gathered together by the Jaycees for so complete a program. The civic accomplishment achieved, which after all is the major thought and purpose of the Association, is gratifying, while the great outpouring of people capped its efforts and made the exhibit the success it was.

Life in the country is what you make it—in the city, what you make.

Secret Sessions Held Behind Scene at Paris Conference; British Report Russia Selling Captured German Arms to Sweden For Resale to Argentina.

By DREW PEARSON

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(By Wireless)—Despite Secretary Byrnes' new, laudable policy of open covenants openly arrived at, some highly important meetings have been taking place behind the scenes at the peace conference here. For obvious reasons certain things have to be discussed in secret. Here are some of them:

Session No. 1—Byrnes got a report via the British Foreign Office that Russia was secretly selling captured German arms to Sweden for resale to Argentina. This by no means made him happy. The United States has followed a strict policy of keeping arms away from Fascist Argentina, and only one month ago, Argentina Chief of Staff General Carlos von Becke made a special trip to see General Eisenhower to plead for arms. Eisenhower said no. Now it develops that Russia is gathering up arms from occupied Germany and handing them over to Sweden for resale to Argentina on the excuse that it needs foreign exchange. Byrnes, in planning a formal protest in writing against this, also plans to take the matter up with Molotov personally.

Secret session No. 2—Molotov has been trying to argue with Jimmie Byrnes into giving permanent and official recognition of Latvia, Lithuania's and Estonia's incorporation into the Soviet. In one session, Molotov told Jimmie that Churchill and Roosevelt both had given the nod to these three Baltic states as part of Russia. The FDR-Winston OK, he said, was given at Teheran and Yalta. Byrnes, however, didn't want to recognize the Baltic states as yet.

Secret session No. 3—Between Byrnes and France's handsome, pink-cheeked Foreign Minister Bidault. Byrnes has been trying to persuade Bidault to join the Rules Committee. Evidently Yugoslavia (pro-Russian) and one Belgian (anti-Russian), Premier Mackenzie King supported this stride, though the U. S., Britain and all the other members of the British Empire opposed. . . . This Czech straddle on the chairmanship is significant of the hole the Czechs have in Russia because their bread is buttered on that side, but their instincts are with the U. S. A. and the United Kingdom. After all, Masaryk was raised in England and the United States.

Obviously Jimmie Byrnes, good as a trader as he may be, can't trade away these points, because they have to be decided by the rest of the conference. The tragic fact is that while the delegates barter and haggle, conditions in Germany are drifting dangerously—so dangerously that unification may come too late.

Senator La Guardia? The ex-mayor of New York, otherwise known as The Little Flower, enjoyed everything about Paris while stopping here except the fact that the Paris fire department didn't stage a fire. Asked whether he would run for the U. S. Senate from New York, La Guardia indicated that, if nominated, he would run like a fire engine.

"Ed Flynn," he was told, "is blocking you."

"I don't blame him," chuckled Fiorello. "Do you?"

Molotov Cocktail The hard-hitting, mercurial Foreign Minister of Russia has changed his tactics a lot since the United Nations Conference at San Francisco. Also, since the Council of Foreign Ministers in London last September.

At San Francisco he jumped all over the smaller nations. He was bitterly sarcastic with Mexico's Foreign Minister Padilla, accused him of learning "his little speech way in advance to support the United States." Result: All Latin American nations were alienated and lined up with the anti-Russian bloc.

At Paris, Molotov is playing his cards more carefully. Perhaps he realizes that public opinion has crystallized against Russia. At any rate, instead of hurling Molotov cocktails when things went against him, he has been outwardly patient and calm. He leans over backward to explain Russia's position. When he saw the votes were stacked against him on the question of public committee meetings, Molotov immediately jumped on the opposition bandwagon. He seconded Byrnes' motion that the press be admitted. On important questions, of course, Molotov doesn't budge an inch. But at least he has learned to be more polite about them.

Around The Peace Table The Chinese Ambassador sits during Conference sessions yawning a large Japanese fan. It's warm in the Luxembourg Palace. . . . Lined up on the very front Conference row are Australia, Egypt and America's Byrnes, most dynamic of all delegates. They got their seats alphabetically, though the French stretched a point to have Byrnes sit in front. Strictly speaking, he should sit under Etats Unis (United States), not Amerique (America). . . . White Russia missed its cue from Molotov and voted wrong on one ballot. Reason was that White Russia, listed as Belorussia, comes near the top of the roll call alphabetically, so its delegate didn't have time to get the nod from the Russian delegation.

Canada also voted wrong on one ballot—for Russia and against the British Empire. This was when Czechoslovakia's Jan Masaryk proposed two rotating chairmen of the Rules Committee: Evas Yugoslavia (pro-Russian) and one Belgian (anti-Russian). Premier Mackenzie King supported this stride, though the U. S., Britain and all the other members of the British Empire opposed. . . . This Czech straddle on the chairmanship is significant of the hole the Czechs have in Russia because their bread is buttered on that side, but their instincts are with the U. S. A. and the United Kingdom. After all, Masaryk was raised in England and the United States.

Friendly Enemies One indication of how badly this conference was organized: When the peace treaties for the Axis satellites finally were made public only twenty copies were available to several hundred American newsmen. Some newsmen, such as the Greeks and Chinese, didn't get a single copy. Though the general content of the treaties was well known to the enemy countries, the first things Bulgaria and Italy did was to let out a loud squawk. The real fact, however, is that both got off better than the others, for a very significant reason. They had two powerful friends at court, Italy's friend was the U. S. A. Bulgaria's friend was the U. S. S. R. Russia, for instance, asked that Bulgaria pay no reparations, while from Italy she demanded $300,000,000. Thanks to Jimmie Byrnes, this was scaled down to $100,000,000.

Thus Italy, one of the original Axis powers, which started the world on the path of war in Ethiopia even before Hitler was on the rampage, pays less reparations than Finland, Hungary or Romania. Incidentally, Italy pays no reparations to Ethiopia despite the fact that she ravished that country in one of the most shameful conquests in history. The treaty only provides that Italy pay Ethiopia for damaged works of art. Greece, another country wantonly invaded by Mussolini, also gets no stated reparations pay-

Missouri Guinea Pig In Democrat Vs CIO-PAC Fight

By MARK SULLIVAN

With the adjournment of Congress last Friday, Kansas City, Missouri replaced Washington, D. C. as the center of the country's domestic interests. For in nine wards of that city, and in neighboring Washington Township and Jackson County, President Truman is engaged in personal political battle with a young lawyer and Congressman, Roger Caldwell Slaughter.

Congressman Slaughter is running for renomination in his party primary. Mr. Truman is opposing him. Mr. Truman's opposition is conspicuous. He took the initiative, personally intervened with Democratic leaders in Missouri to prevent the renomination, publicly endorsed an opponent Enoch A. Axtell. This opponent is likewise endorsed by the CIO Political Action Committee. Because of all this the contest is called a test case. As Mr. Slaughter puts it, "this district is the guinea pig to decide whether the Democrats or the . . . CIO Political Action Committee is going to control the Democratic Party."

In the associations between Mr. Truman and the CIO to oppose Congressman Slaughter is an ironic aspect. Congressman Slaughter says: "I will not refer to the President except in courteous and dignified language." That is the habitual attitude of Democrats as Democrats, and Congressmen as Congressmen. Rarely in Congress or from any member of it, Democrat or Republican, is heard any seriously harsh allusion to Mr. Truman. Almost never is one heard from any Democrat, or in any Democratic gathering.

The attitude of Congressman Slaughter as one opposed by the President, and the attitude of Democrats generally, is in strange contrast with the attitude of those who in this Missouri district are Mr. Truman's allies, and who on a nationwide scale are engaged in what Democrats consider to be a struggle for control of the party Mr. Truman heads. In the public sight and hearing, CIO leaders allude to Mr. Truman in terms which not only condemn public actions of his but include harsh personal allusions. The president of one of the largest CIO unions, the United Automobile Workers, addressing a union convention last March, was reported in newspaper accounts which the public read widely, as calling Mr. Truman "weak and spineless," and "not having intestinal fortitude."

The head of the Political Action Committee in New York City, presiding at a public meeting called to condemn President Truman's action about the railroad strike, was quoted as pledging himself to prevent "any honest man" from voting for the President's re-election. At the same meeting members of a CIO union carried banners saying "Down with Truman and all labor haters in Congress." At the same meeting one of the speakers was a railroad union head who on several occasions has denounced Mr. Truman in terms of almost ferocity. Such utterances are reported in newspapers, go out over the radio.

Says Truman Prisoner of CIO This condition accounts for a phrase by Mr. Slaughter. He says that Mr. Truman is the "prisoner"

ments from Italy. Greek damages will be a matter for conference debate. In other words, the United States fought Italy's battles in secret Big Four sessions right over the line and despite the gnashing of teeth by the Italian Prime Minister, she got off much better than expected.

NOTE—Enemy delegates are given hotel space and automobiles by the French Government in Paris as they wait impatiently to sign the final document of peace. The only courtesy denied them is flying their country's flag on the hotel which they occupy.

World Court Plan As Accepted By U. S. and Its Bearing On Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Times certainly have changed. With but a few hours of debate, the United States Senate pledged this country to submit its dispute to a world court and agreed to abide by the judgment of that court in all legal matters excepting those which might be considered purely domestic.

Anyone who has followed the long history of the Senate's handling of the problem of American entry into a world court cannot but rub his eyes to make sure that he isn't dreaming. For, coming back to the earliest days of the Republic, Theodore Roosevelt and Taft, there was a decided sentiment in the Republican party in favor of arbitration of international disputes through a court of international justice. This was blocked repeatedly, however, by a nationalistic view of the Republic-Democratic coalition, which caused the Senate to refuse again and again to ratify arbitration treaties.

Coalition Defeated Moves

Then came the era of the League of Nations when the World Court was set up in the League. President Harding said he favored the World Court but the Republican party did not follow him and a combination of Democrats and Republicans in the Senate continued to block the proposal. The effort was renewed by President Coolidge but it failed again. Finally under President Hoover the resolution was amended in such confused fashion that it never really materialized because, when other nations amended to conform to the Senate's interpretation, a dispute arose as to the meaning.

Another attempt was made by President Franklin Roosevelt but the Senate, on January 29, 1935, defeated the resolution of ratification after the matter had lain dormant since 1930.

Last week a new proposal to accept the verdict of the world court set up by the United Nations went through the U. S. Senate by a vote of 80 to 2. This was more than the necessary two-thirds. Senators absent or paired would not have changed the result had they been present.

Significance Not Overestimated

The significance of the step cannot be overestimated. America is really the first major power to join the World Court with a definite statement accepting compulsory jurisdiction of the new institution on a wide variety of cases.

Thus the United States accepts

the court's right to hear and decide questions involving "interpretation of a treaty; any question of international law; the existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of an international obligation; and the nature or extent of the reparation to be made for the breach of an international obligation."

The foregoing are what long have been known as "justiciable" questions. In the early decades of this century on a world scale, President Taft said he would be willing to have the United States arbitrate or submit to a world court all "justiciable" questions as distinguished from those affecting "national honor." Only in later years has it become clear that, irrespective of what might be called a question of "national honor," there is a field of judicial determination and that this concerned purely legal questions.

Republicans Long Advocated Step What the U. S. Senate has done is to pass at last without equivocation the resolution which was advocated over a long span of years by such Republican statesmen as John Hay, Elihu Root, Charles Evans Hughes, Henry L. Stimson, Frank B. Kellogg, any of whom served as secretary of state. It also had in subsequent years the earnest support of Cordell Hull, secretary of state in Democratic administrations, and of his successors—Messrs. Stettinius and Byrnes.

The United States Senate has always had a clear majority in favor of the principle of a world court, but not until last week was the necessary two-thirds forthcoming.

The importance of the action lies in the fact that in neither political party today does a sufficient minority exist which can form a coalition to block a proposal of foreign policy that is definitely related to the maintenance of peace.

U. S. Leads The Way

A world court of compulsory jurisdiction means that certain questions that could lead to friction, and perhaps war, between nations must be left to a judicial body to determine, just as citizens in a democracy leave it to a Supreme Court to pass judgment on their disputes. Other countries have not yet accepted compulsory jurisdiction but the leadership manifested by the United States is expected to give the world court a prestige and momentum which will bring all peace-loving nations to an acceptance of the world court's jurisdiction on legal questions.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Time runs smoothly along, no matter what happens. War and peace are the same to it. All varieties of flowers are the same today as when we first learned their names in our youth. Gold, precious stones and all the elements that make up this earth do not mind the passing of time. They remain the same, excepting in the quality of their purity. That varies.

Man has made use of things that have advanced civilization, and many new discoveries have been gained to man's advantage, but he hasn't changed fundamentally. His viewpoints and his ideas, however, do change. Things he once loved, or thought he wanted, later he does not love and does not want. Time is the same, yesterday, today, and forever—it's our moods and personal selections that keep changing all the time.

After long years away, a return to the place of our birth, or our early home, gives us a distinct surprise. It isn't what we remembered or experienced. Something has dropped out. Time's passing does something to our vision. Perhaps there is something to the notion, as some suspect, that we change our personality every so often—some say every seven years. The fact remains, however, that we either tire or our mental processes do something to us that makes us see new light to old things.

We are enriched, nevertheless, by continual contact with those friends or those books that keep feeding us mentally and spiritually. They keep changing us into better and more intelligent human beings. Time's passing only adds richness to the experience that they offer.

Maturity usually brings on tolerance to us. We see the justice in universal good, and learn the foolishness of snobbery and high-hattness. We also gain a new regard for the Golden Rule, a rule that, were it adopted, universally, would put an end to all strife and all wars and bring to us the ideal of a One World, here and now.

We ought to do more with ourselves as time goes on. Be ourselves more, and less some Tom, Dick, or Harry! As a human entity, what possibilities lie within the shell of each one of us!

The Cumberland Undergarment Co. leased the building located at 917 Gay Street for the manufacture of popular priced Ladies Undergarments.

This is a large modern building with pleasant surroundings and many improvements such as:

- FLUORESCENT LIGHTING
- NEW AND MODERN WASH ROOMS
- AND EVENTUALLY AN AIR-CONDITIONED FACTORY
- CLEAN DRESSING ROOMS
- A RED CROSS ROOM

It is an ideal place in which to be employed.

Our plans for this building were to employ about 550 girls, and our future plans were to erect an additional building for approximately 400 more. This would give a payroll of well over one million dollars. Our survey of your town showed a lack of suitable employment for women.

We opened our doors on December 3rd and started the process of teaching 30 girls at a time. All girls had to be taught each operation step by step, threading the needle, the operation of the machine, the technique of sewing and finishing the garment. Much material was spoiled during this teaching process, and while the girls were actually being taught the art of sewing, they received compensation amounting to $16.00 per week for the first four weeks of employment. As they progressed their pay was increased proportionately, and by the end of six months they received a minimum amount of $24.00 per week. If a girl proved the ability to produce over the minimum amount she was paid in proportion to what she produced on a piece work basis. The piece work rates would permit a normal girl with normal ability to make a minimum of $30.00 per 40 hour week.

THESE PIECE WORK RATES WERE UNDER SURVEY BY TIME STUDY ENGINEERS SENT TO OUR FACTORY BY THE I. L. G. W. U., THE LEGAL UNION REPRESENTATIVE OF THE WORKERS.

We have been in favor of organized labor, and have favored high wages. We feel that in order to have prosperity the earning power of our employees must be proportionately high so that these employees could enjoy not only the necessities but some luxuries as well.

This community or any other progressive community cannot afford to deprive women the right to gainful employment. A majority of our 172 girls are willing and anxious to continue their work on the basis of the contract, but a small group has chosen to interfere and have called a strike in defiance of the union and the wishes of the majority of the workers.

It is not necessary for this company to remain in Cumberland. We have received offers from other communities who realize the importance of bringing new industry to their towns. Offers that are indeed interesting such as: Land, A New Building, Free Taxes, and Free Power for a period of years. They are willing to share part of the cost of loss incurred in the teaching necessary to train girls that are inexperienced.

FEMININE CAREERS?

Career women—do I believe in them?

Do I believe that modern girls can find the same delight in professions which their mothers found in babies, husbands, homes?

Do I think that women are fundamentally as well adapted to careers as men?

No, stranger, I don't. No—to all three questions.

I don't believe that modern girls find the joy in professional life which their mothers found in the home . . . nor do I believe they're as well fitted for careers as men.

To the contrary, I believe that most women consider careers to be an unsatisfactory way of life and in most cases follow them for the extra money they provide rather than for love of the work itself.

Does that seem inconsistent, coming from a woman who is obviously following a career? It needn't.

Many a woman is forced into a career by the urgent need of those she loves. I'm one of them. But I've never believed, for one minute, that this is the life I would have liked best or would have chosen. Our work isn't necessarily a matter of preference, either for men or women.

Nor is it a matter of intelligence. Having followed a masculine as well as feminine career, I'm convinced that it takes quite as much intelligence to run a home as to manage an office or factory. Maybe more. Certainly "home life" is far more diversified and calls for a greater variety of skills than a professional or trade career.

It isn't the amount of brains which either the man or the woman possesses that counts, but the use we make of them. Women have fully as much intelligence as men but they will always use it differently. The overwhelming majority of women will always attack their problems from the personal angle. They do this because they have been trained to do so from time immemorial. That doesn't mean that their problems are less serious or their approach more frivolous. To the contrary, many of the most important crises in human history have required the "feminine touch."

Queen Victoria, who had ample female shrewdness, learned how to work through and with men; insisted, indeed, upon doing so.

People are the raw material with which women build as men build with real estate, cattle, stocks and bonds, shops and mills.

This is also the reason why many women succeed in posttops which seem predominantly masculine. . . in social service. . . as judges, particularly in juvenile courts. . . as executives in personnel positions. . . as publicity writers and press agents. Women are not "out of their sphere" in such positions—they are using their peculiar ability at its very height.

Yet even when women are succeeding along lines for which they are especially fitted I doubt if they feel truly complete within themselves unless they have some intimate, personal companionship with men and children.

A man can manage quite nicely without a woman—though he seldom puts himself to the test. But no position, however satisfying, can compensate a woman for the loss of a man's close companionship.

Career women? No. There's just one career that satisfies and completes a woman physically, mentally and spiritually, and that's a career which centers around a man.

The man need not always be a son or husband. Many a woman is obviously unfit to be a mother, wife or partner and she'll avoid endless tragedy if she realizes the fact in time. But she can serve as a mother

Nor is it a matter of intelligence. Having followed a masculine as well as feminine career, I'm convinced that it takes quite as much intelligence to run a home as to manage an office or factory. Maybe more. Certainly "home life" is more diversified and calls for a greater variety of skills than a professional or trade career.

It isn't the amount of brains which either the man or the woman possesses that counts. But the use we make of them. Women have fully as much intelligence as men but they will always use it differently. The overwhelming majority of women will always attack their problems from the personal angle. They do this because they have been trained to do so from time immemorial. That doesn't mean that their problems are less serious or their approach more frivolous. To the contrary, many of the most important crises in human history have required the "feminine touch." Queen Victoria, who had ample female shrewdness learned how to work through and with men; insisted, indeed, upon doing so.

People are the raw material with which women build as men build with real estate, cattle, stocks and bonds, shops and mills.

This is also the reason why many women succeed in positions which seem predominantly masculine . . . in social service . . . as judges, particularly in juvenile courts . . . as executives in personnel positions . . . as publicity writers and press agents. Women are not "out of their sphere" in such positions—they are using their peculiar ability at its very height.

Yet even when women are succeeding along lines for which they are especially fitted I doubt if they feel truly complete within themselves unless they have some intimate, personal companionship with men and children.

A man can manage quite nicely without a woman—though he seldom puts himself to the test. But no position, however satisfying, can compensate a woman for the loss of a man's close companionship.

Career women? No. There's just one career that satisfies and completes a woman physically, mentally and spiritually, and that's a career which centers around a man.

The man need not always be a son or husband. Many a woman is obviously unfit to be a mother, wife or partner and she'll avoid endless tragedy if she realizes the fact in time. But she can serve as a mother

National Honor Roll Dedicated; Program Is Given Bears Name Of Five Men Who Lost Their Lives In Recent War

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Aug. 5.—Rev. Walter D. Mehling, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed church, this city, was the principal speaker at the dedication of the Honor Roll at the National Sunday afternoon. Rev. Raymond Crowe, pastor of the Midland Methodist Church, offered the invocation and Rev. Father Lawrence J. Kilkenny, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, pronounced the benediction.

The Honor Roll bears the names of five men from the community who lost their lives in the war. They are John G. Allen, John W. Dawson, Kenneth DeVolt, George Hitchins and George A. Patterson.

The Honor Roll, blue and gold, with a background of small white crosses, was surrounded with a profusion of floral tributes for the dedication ceremony. A large wreath of mixed flowers was presented by John R. Fairgrieve Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Frostburg.

Alex Nicol, commander of the V. F. W. of Frostburg, had charge of the ceremonies and as each name was read he placed large white flowers in the vase in front of the Honor Roll as an individual tribute. Sacred music for the occasion was furnished by the Zion band under direction of Darrell Zeller.

The Honor Roll is in the care of the Woman's Club of Woodland, whose members constantly keep flowers on each side and in front of the board as testimonial to the men whose names are on the roll.

County Voters Number Nearly 48,000 Now

Registered voters in Allegany county now exceed 47,930, it was reported by Patrick F. King, clerk of the county board of election supervisors. During the week of registration prior to the June 24 primary, 2,294 more persons registered than in 1944 when a total of 46,632 persons were listed.

King said that the ratio of Republicans to Democrats is still "about the same." In 1944 there were 25,361 Republicans and 20,261 Democrats on the books. Now there are 26,691 Republicans and 21,240 Democrats enrolled.

The present tabulation does not include the number of Socialists, members of other parties, or those who declined to give their affiliation, King said.

Two of the largest polling districts are in Cumberland, with District 6-2 having a total of 1,068 voters and district 4-2, 1,042. Kifer is the smallest polling place in the county, with 113 voters, 77 of whom are Republicans.

Three-Man Train Crew Will Meet To Settle Strike

Railroaders Halt Production Of Four Companies In Garrett County

Efforts to settle the three-man strike against the Castlemans River Railroad Company, which has practically halted production of four companies in Garrett County will be made this morning, Dewey Yommer, superintendent said.

Yommer explained that the three men struck Wednesday night after the daily run between Worth, Pa., and Jennings, Md., because John Hersker, owner of the 14 mile railroad, has refused to raise the men's wages to the standard paid on other railroads.

Yommer explained that Hersker has offered the men an 18 cent increase the same as national railroads sanctioned recently, but explained this wouldn't bring the wages to standard railroad wage since the standard salaries paid by Hersker are very low.

The three strikers, Harry Hoover, engineer, Grantsville, Bruce Yommer, conductor, Grantsville, and Stanley Wiley, fireman, Jennings, operate the only train that runs over the line. Yommer said, and usually make one trip a day.

The strike has practically stopped work in the whole valley. Yommer said, explaining the Union Fire Brick Company, the Burnwell Coal Company, the Little Lumber Company and the Grantsville Coal Company depend on the line to transport their products.

Yommer said about 150 men employed in various industries in Garrett County are already out of work and more will become idle if the strike isn't settled soon.

The short line built about 50 years ago to serve the old Jennings sawmill has been serving to connect the county with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Worth, near Salisbury, Pa.

Yommer said between 25 and 30 cars are transported over the line each day and on some days it is necessary to make two trips.

Keyser High Will Play 11-Game Grid Schedule

Golden Tornado To Open With Alumni, Sept. 6; Two Practice Sessions Daily Start Aug. 20

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Keyser high school's football team will play eleven games during the 1946 season, six of which will be staged on the home field, it was announced today by Coach Fred "Fack" Clark, who is starting his fourth successive season as mentor of the Golden Tornado griders.

Keyser's large squad was reduced to fifty-five candidates during the spring drills. Clark said he expects his line to average 165 and the backfield 150, one of the lightest squads since he took over the coaching duties here four years ago. The only regular holding over from 1945 are Quarterback Quinn and Tackle Reishman.

Six games will be played with Potomac Valley Conference schools, four with non-conference teams, namely, Mason-Dixon, Charles Town, Thomas and Allegany, of Cumberland, and the inaugural with the Alumni on September 6.

White Sox Lead In Twin Killings

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox are drowning their seventh-place woes in a double-play binge which may threaten the Major League record of 198 and stems from a strange concoction of youth and age.

The war's end was supposed to wither the old-timers on baseball's vine, but right now 37-year-old shortstop Luke Appling and 40-year-old first baseman Joe Judge are providing the punch which has produced a league-leading bag of 124 twin killings by the Pale Hose.

And sandwiched between them at second base is 20-year-old Cass Michaels, whose once erratic play has been steadied amazingly by the pace set by the Boston Red Sox last year when they turned in 198 for a Major League record. At this time last year, the Red Sox had 132.

Michals' brilliant pivot work has been a major factor in the White Sox getting two, but Kugel is the real surprise of the Southsiders. Still agile and fast for all of his admitted 40 years, Kugel makes every play look easy. Saturday, he tied a league single-game record for first basemen by participating in five double plays, a trick he previously worked in 1940.

Vernon Retains Batting Lead

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—James (Mickey) Vernon, Washington Senators' first baseman, has come up with a .357 average for the third successive week for six points to lead over Boston's Ted Williams in the American League hitting race.

Consistent Vernon collected 13 hits in 36 trips last week to keep his average unchanged, while Williams banged only four blows in 16 appearances to slip four points to .331.

Two of Ted's hits, however, were homers to keep him at the head of the four-bagger parade with 29. Williams, who was not in uniform Sunday for the first time this season because of illness, continued to lead in runs batted in with 97 and runs with 166.

Other specialized pace-setters also remained unchanged with George Case of Cleveland tops in stolen bases with 23; Vernon leading in two-baggers with 35; Boston's Johnny Pesky ahead in hits with 140; and Cleveland's Hank Edwards and Johnny Lewis of Washington sharing the lead in triples with 10 each.

Despite his fourth defeat, Southpaw Hal Newhouse of Detroit, a 20-game winner, continued to pace the pitching department. Bobby Feller of Cleveland added 16 strikeouts victims to boost his total to 246.

Walker Regains Batting Lead

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—Dixie Walker, perennial favorite of Ebbets field customers, clouted at a .546 clip during the past week to regain the batting lead in the National League.

The Brooklyn Dodger outfielder rapped out 13 hits in 22 appearances to the plate including games of Sunday to jump his .377 batting average of a week ago to .378.

Walker supplanted Boston's Johnny Hopp as the circuit's top hitter. Hopp, who led the parade last week with 581, collected only three safeties in 18 tries and dropped to second with a .362 mark.

New York's Johnny Mize continues to pace the loop in four-bagger production with 22.

Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals has driven in the highest number of tallies, 81 and Pielot Pete Reiser, injured outfielder of the Dodgers has stolen the most bases, 26.

Little Murry Dickson of St. Louis is loop's top hurler with a ten win and three loss record while veteran Schoolboy Rowe of Philadelphia is runner-up with an 11 and four mark.

Owen Wants Back In Major League, Rickey Reports

Says Former Catcher Has Left Mexican Loop; Pasquel "Surprised"

BOSTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said tonight that a mutual friend of his and Mickey Owen, the former Dodger catcher who jumped to the Mexican League, had informed him that Owen had left Mexico to seek reinstatement in organized baseball.

Rickey said the friend, who asked that his name not be used, declared "Owen is now in Brownsville, Texas, and will seek reinstatement to organized baseball."

The Brooklyn chief said the informant told him that Owen severed his connection with the south of the border loop, controlled by President Jorge Pasquel and his four brothers.

Details of Owen's severance were not made clear to him, Rickey added.

Rickey informed Brooklyn night clubbers to cover the Dodgers' rights claim with the Boston Braves, what he had been told by the "friend."

Asked what he would do if Owen requested his support to regain standing in organized baseball, Rickey replied:

"In that case, I would intercede with Commissioner Chandler in Owen's behalf. My friendship for Owen goes back nine years. If there is anything I can do, I'll be glad to do it."

A reporter then asked him if he would like Owen back on the club.

"That's something I can't discuss now," Rickey replied. "It's up to Commissioner Chandler to rule on his case first."

Owen, discharged from the Navy last spring, jumped the Dodgers in April, two weeks before the Big League season opened, to sign a five-year contract with the Mexican League. He reportedly received $12,500 cash bonus for signing and an annual salary of over $15,000.

Under Mexican League procedure, Owen was signed by the league and then assigned to Vera Cruz. Pasquel is president of that club as well as head of the loop.

Owen was player-manager for a while but later was dropped as manager. The Vera Cruz club, loaded with American players has been last in the league virtually all season. Today, without Owen in the lineup, Vera Cruz whipped Torreon 8-1 in Mexico City and moved into seventh place.

Barred For Five Years
Under a ruling by Commissioner Chandler, Owen and other American players who jumped to the Mexican League, are barred for five years from organized baseball and even at the end of that period must first apply for reinstatement.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5 (AP)—Gerardo Pasquel expressed "complete surprise" tonight at reports Mickey Owen, manager and catcher for the Vera Cruz Blues, had broken his Mexican League contract and returned to the United States.

Pasquel said his brother, Jorge, league president and owner of the Blues, was out of town and knew nothing of the report. He is expected here tomorrow.

Efforts to locate Owen in Mexico City so far have failed, Pasquel said. The former Dodgers catcher did not appear in the lineup today when Vera Cruz played Torreon at Delia Park here.

Benswanger Says He'll Stay With Pirate Club

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5 (AP)—William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said tonight he will remain with the club if it is sold to Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis banker.

It had been reported McKinney will purchase the Pirates for an estimated $2,500,000 on Thursday.

Asked if he would remain with the Pirates in some official capacity, Benswanger replied:

"Mr. McKinney asked me to stay with the club on a recent visit here. I told him I would not desert him. However, how long I will remain with him is something I would not care to say."

Pavol Cops Feature

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP)—Walter M. Jeffords' Pavol survived a five-way blanket finish to capture the $24,750 Wilson Mile as thoroughbred racing resumed to rustic, rambling Saratoga today with record opening day figures.

Sharing topweight of 126 pounds with the ineffectual Lucky Draw, Pavol took the $17,500 first money by a long head while W. L. Brann's game filly, Gaiety, came with a belated rush to be second in the star-studded field of 11 veterans.

Then, also heads behind, came Harry La Montagne's Lucky Lady, Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polyanna, the favorite and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Styria to complete the bunched first flight.

North End at East Side (East Side) Lacy's at Keegan's (Allegany) Williams Street at Columbia (Maccabees at V.F.W. (Community)

Exploding in the last of the seventh inning for all of their runs, North End Social and Athletic Club softballers came from behind to edge out Williams Street tossers 3-2 at Stittcher field yesterday and trim the latter's lead in the last half race of the City Softball League to a half-game.

Entering the last of the seventh, Williams Street held a 2-0 margin but with one out and the bases loaded, Gene Whitman singled to center to drive in two runs and a bad throw from the outfield enabled the winning tally to cross the home plate. North End was held to three hits by Underdonk while Scalletta allowed Williams Street six.

In yesterday's other loop tilt, Lacy's Delicats defeated the Veterans of Foreign Wars 10-8 at Taylor field, American Legion wallopped East Side 11-1 at Community Park, and the Maccabees trounced Keegan's Jaspers 15-5 on the Rolling Mill diamond in a game limited to six innings by darkness.

Mullan had three hits and "Be" Orndorff, Harding and Miller each two for the Delicats with one of Harding's triple and one of Miller's a double.

With Roy Taylor pitching one-hit ball, the Legion swamped East Side. The only hit off Taylor came in the sixth when Johnson beat out a high infield bounder for a single. Two errors and a passed ball gave East Side its only run in the third.

Taylor fanned six and was given a two-run working margin in the first when Mike Robinson walked and Bill Raupach and Howie Wilson each doubled. Three more tallies came across in the second on a walk, Roy Taylor's single and Paul Kemp's double. In the sixth after two were out, Paul Kemp doubled to left, took third on Doyle George's bobble of Curt Hickie's sharp grounder and both runners scored on Raupach's single. Singles by George and Wilson drove in two more tallies in that frame.

Abe, Duncan and Morgan each had three blows for the Maccabees, who pounded John Wolf for 19 safeties. Abe had a double and Duncan a triple in their collections. Steiner poled a homer and single for the Jaspers. The scores:

68,000 Seek Tickets
The football season will break all records for receipts, so many gridiron economists think. If they want an additional fact to bolster their optimistic predictions let them look no farther than Miami, Fla., where last season, 68,000 applications for tickets for the Orange Bowl were already in hand—within the arena seating only 38,000 and no opponents to be picked until next December.

Neale Lords Ewart
Earl (Greasy) Neale, headman of the Philadelphia Eagles and once upon a time backfield mentor under Ducky Pond at Yale, in a mood of mingled admiration and gratitude has selected one of his former Yale players as backfield coach of the Philadelphia National football league—Charles Ewart, Eli Ewart's brother.

Neale, who led the team to a national championship in 1956-57, while Ewart had the great good fortune at New Haven to find a general team with which to play, Larry Kelley on Clint Frank and Larry Kelley on Clint Frank and Larry Kelley on Clint Frank.

It he needed not this gifted pair to define him as a hot quarterback in his own right, Princeton will recall him with regret; remember that weird 26-23 Eli victory over the Tigers when Yale came from miles behind to snatch the game?—just as in 1935 when Yale led the Pennsylvania game, score 20-6 against the Blue only under Ewart's inspired direction and forward passing to come back in the last two quarters to a 31-20 triumph. Charley, in fact, specializes in comebacks. And such a specialist is and has been the Eagles' greatest need. (By Consolidated News Features, Inc.)

Long Will Coach Allegany Eleven

John J. Long, who played his first football at Allegany High School, will return to his Alma Mater as coach of the Campers' gridiron team this fall, according to announcement by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county public high schools.

Long moves to the Campobello school as successor to Walter L. Bowers after having coached at LaSalle high school last season.

A native of Cumberland, Long attended LaSalle and Allegany, graduating from the Campobello school in 1934 after having starred in football and basketball there.

He is also a graduate of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., where he played freshman and varsity football and basketball.

In 1929 he coached football at LaSalle the second year after the sport was adopted there. In 1930 he coached football at Newman Prep, Lakewood, N. J. In 1936 he transferred to Cathedral high, Trenton, N. J., as coach.

From 1937 through 1941 Long was head football and track coach at Fort Hill High School, this city. He left Fort Hill to become associated with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, subsequently returning to Catholic U. to handle the intramural athletic program.

He plans to call out candidates for the AHS football squad on August 26.

Bowers will continue as basketball coach at Allegany.

EASTERN SHORE LOOP HEAD SAYS BOTTLE THROWING MUST STOP

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Aug. 5 (AP)—Bottle throwing and spectator threats against umpires in the Eastern Shore League must stop, J. Thomas Kibler, league president, said today as he levied fines and suspensions against the manager of the Federalburg, Md., A's and a player.

"We've had enough of this rowdiness, and you can expect more suspensions and fines," Kibler said as he ruled that effective Aug. 11 no more soft drinks would be sold in bottles at league parks.

The action stemmed from an incident Thursday night in a game between Federalburg and the Dover, Del. Phils, when state police failed to escort Umpire Bob Hanks from the field.

When Hanks called Bill Kemore of the A's out at the plate, the player protested and Manager Lew Krause joined Kemore in the protest. Some 700 spectators moved onto the field during the argument.

Kibler said they had "excited a potential riot," and fined Krause $100 and suspended him for five weeks. Kemore was fined $25.

Pop bottles were tossed in a game between Centerville, Md., and Milford, Del., at Milford the same night.

McEwan Says Don't Write Army Out Of Notre Dame Game

Close Contest Predicted; Neale Gets Ewart, Former Yale Ace

By LAWRENCE PERRY
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Along the rural waysides just now you see the goldenrod still green, yet disclosing to close scrutiny a faint flush of color which are long will set flame to country lanes and byways. So it is with intercollegiate football in which the interested observer may find definite hints of approaching bloom in scores and snippets of information and gossip you pick up here and there.

For instance: Ran into Col. John McEwan, U. S. A., retired on Broadway. John has been entertaining some friends from Eugene, Ore., where he coached the Webfoots several years ago.

"Don't write Army out of the Notre Dame game because we have lost Coulter and a couple of lesser lights," McEwan said, "and also because the Irish will be loaded for bear, meaning West Point. That is going to be one close game—and the best I can do is to tell you who won after the battle is over."

Fitt in Conference?
Talk goes forward of what in diplomacy is called a rapprochement between Pittsburgh and the Western Conference. It gains weight because of a recent happening at Columbus which has even the alumni ya-ga—the appointment of Dick Larkins, professor of physical education at the university, as athletic director to succeed L. W. St. John, who after long, honorable and efficient service has retired at the age of seventy. Larkins's selection lies in the dark horse category. Every one thought that Larry St. John's successor would be his assistant, Harold Olson. So the incident aligns itself with another very curious one at Columbus, the request of Carroll Widows, head coach in 1945, that he be permitted to slip back into an assistant coach job and that his assistant, Paul Bixler, become the headman. Which was promptly done.

Establishing a wild and woolly precedent in inter-college sport because of the fact that the new Bixler athletic director and Wes Feller, new head coach at the Smoky City institution, were roommates in their undergraduate days at Ohio State whose friendship has endured.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5 (AP)—Tex Shirley was fined today by Manager Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns for an unethical wild throw which landed in the left field bleachers seats in Sunday's second game with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Sewell wouldn't say how much the long-distance throw cost the big right-hander but he referred to it as "one of the most disgraceful exhibitions of temper I have ever seen on a ball field."

Denny Galehouse was sent in to relieve Shirley, who had been in trouble in each of the first three innings and who had let three men on base at the start of the fourth. Shirley walked off the mound, suddenly turned and heaved the ball toward the bleacher seats. It dropped 375 feet away.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5 (AP)—If the Brooklyn Dodgers manage to win the 1946 National League pennant, they'll owe an assist to the Phils.

While the Phils have not beaten the Dodgers in 10 games this year, they have copped seven of 16 meetings with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers, atop the major league's longest current jinx, have not lost to the Phils at Shibe Park since late in 1944.

The Blue Jays did a lot toward making the Cards lose the flag last year, winning nine and losing 13 against the Redbirds. Against the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs, however, the Phils could win only five of 22 games.

With the clearing up of the Chestertown transaction just about the details were worked for the $50,000 corn tassel sweepstakes.

Anywhere from 11 to 20 three-year-old trotters were expected to have their names dropped into Secretary Al Saunders' entry box by noon tomorrow to start after the approximately $30,000 which will go to the winner in the best two of three mile heats.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox seeking to bolster their farm system, may purchase the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association within a month.

Charles Comiskey II, of the family which owns the White Sox, admitted today the club "definitely" was interested in buying the Brewers from owner Oscar Salenger, Chicago attorney.

Salenger purchased the Brewers less than a year ago from William Veeck, now a co-owner of the Cleveland Indians.

The 22-year-old Comiskey, destined to become White Sox president when he finishes at St. Thomas College (Minn.), said it was unlikely any deal for the Brewers would be closed before the Association season ends on Sept. 8.

Salenger, who recently entered an unsuccessful bid to purchase the Pittsburgh Pirates, disclosed here last night he had received three offers for the Brewers, but did not identify the prospective buyers.

Golden Tornado To Open With Alumni, Sept. 6; Two Practice Sessions Daily Start Aug. 20

KEYSER, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Keyser high school football team will play eleven games during the 1946 season, six of which will be staged on the home field, it was announced today by Coach Fred "Tack" Clark, who is starting his fourth successive season as mentor of the Golden Tornado griders.

Clark said that equipment will be distributed among candidates for the squad on Monday, August 19, and two drills will be held daily from Tuesday, August 20 until the school term opens on Thursday, September 5.

Keyser's large squad was reduced to fifty-five candidates during the spring drill. Clark said he expects his line to average 155 and the backfield 150, one of the lightest squads since he took over the coaching duties here four years ago. The only regular holding over from 1945 are Quarterback Quinn and Tackle Hishman.

Six games will be played with Potomac Valley Conference schools, four with non-conference teams, namely, Mason-Town, Charles Town, Thomas and Allegany, of Cumberland, and the inaugural with the Alumni on September 6.

All of the contests, scheduled for Friday dates, are as follows:

White Sox lead in twin killings

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox are drowning their seventh-place woes in a double-play binge which may threaten the Major League record of 198 and stems from a strange concoction of youth and age.

The war's end was supposed to wither the old-timers on baseball's vine, but right now 37-year-old shortstop Luke Appling and 40-year-old first baseman Joe Kuhel are providing the punch which has produced a league-leading bag of 124 twin killings by the Pale Hose.

And sandwiched between them at second base is 26-year-old Camilo Michaels, whose once erratic play has been steadily amazing by the pace of polished oldsters.

Washington's four-game set which ended yesterday was highlighted by 20 double plays, 12 of them by the White Sox who are slightly off the pace set by the Boston Red Sox last year when they turned in 198 for a Major League record. At this time last year, the Red Sox had 132.

Michals' brilliant pivot work was a major factor in the White Sox getting two apiece, but Kuhel is the real surprise of the Southsiders.

Still agile and fast for all of his admitted 40 years, Kuhel makes every play look easy. Saturday, he tied a league single-game record for first basemen by participating in five double plays, a trick he previously worked in 1940.

Vernon retains batting lead

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—James (Mickey) Vernon, Washington Senators' first baseman, has come up with a .307 average for the third successive week for a six point lead over Boston's Ted Williams in the American League hitting race.

Consistent Vernon collected 13 hits in 36 trips last week to keep his average unchanged, while Williams banged only four blows in 16 appearances to slip four points to .281.

Two of Ted's hits, however, were homers to keep him at the head of the four-bagger parade with 29.

Williams, who was not in uniform Sunday for the first time this season because of illness, continued to lead in runs batted in with 97 and runs with 106.

Other specialized pace-setters also remained unchanged, with George Case of Cleveland tops in stolen bases with 23; Vernon leading in two-baggers with 35; Boston's Johnny Pesky ahead in hits with 140; and Cleveland's Hank Edwards and Johnny Lewis of Washington sharing the lead in triples with 10 each.

Despite his fourth defeat, Southpaw Hal Newhouser of Detroit, a 20-game winner, continued to pace the pitching department. Bobby Feller of Cleveland added 16 strikeouts to boost his total to 246.

Walker Regains Batting Lead

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—Dixie Walker, perennial favorite of a half breed customers, clouted at a .345 clip during the past week to regain the batting lead in the National League.

The Brooklyn Dodger outfielder rapped off 12 hits in 22 appearances to the plate including games of Sunday to jump his .367 batting average of a week ago to .378.

Walker supplanted Boston's Johnny Hopp as the club's top hitter. Hopp, who led the parade last week with .381, collected only three safeties in 18 trips and dropped to second with a .368 mark.

New York's Johnny Mize continues to pace the loop in four-bagger production with 22.

Ernie Slaughter of the Cardinals has driven in the highest number of tallies, 81, and Pistol Pete Reiser, injured outfielder of the Dodgers has stolen the most bases, 26.

Little Murry Dickson of St. Louis is loop's top hurler with 11 wins and three lost record while veteran Schoolboy Rowe of Philadelphia is runner-up with an 11 and four mark.

Owen Wants Back In Major League, Rickey Reports

Says Former Catcher Has Left Mexican Loop; Pasquel "Surprised"

BOSTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said tonight that a mutual friend of his and Mickey Owen, the former Dodger catcher who jumped to the Mexican League, had informed him that Owen had left Mexico to seek reinstatement in organized baseball.

Rickey said the friend, who asked that his name not be used, declared "Owen is now in Brownsville, Texas, and will seek reinstatement to organized baseball."

The Brooklyn chief said the informant told him that Owen severed his connection with the south of the border loop, controlled by President Jorge Pasquel and his four brothers.

Details of Owen's severance were not made clear to him, Rickey added.

Rickey informed Brooklyn writers, here to cover the Dodgers' night clash with the Boston Braves, what he had been told by the "friend."

Asked what he would do if Owen requested his support to regain standing in organized baseball, Rickey replied:

"In that case, I would intercede with Commissioner Chandler in Owen's behalf. My friendship for Owen goes back nine years. If there is anything I can do, I'll be glad to do it."

A reporter then asked him if he would take Owen back on the club.

"That's something I can't discuss now," Rickey replied. "It's up to Commissioner Chandler to rule on his case first."

Owen, discharged from the Navy last spring, jumped the Dodgers in April, two weeks before the Big League season opened, to sign a five-year contract with the Mexican League. He reportedly received $12,500 cash bonus for signing and an annual salary of over $15,000.

Under Mexican League procedure, Owen was signed by the league and then assigned to Vera Cruz. Pasquel is president of that club as well as head of the loop.

Owen was player-manager for a while but later was dropped as manager. The Vera Cruz club, loaded with American players has been last in the league virtually all season. Today, without Owen in the lineup, Vera Cruz whipped Turreon 8-1 in Mexico City and moved into seventh place.

Barred For Five Years

Under a ruling by Commissioner Chandler, Owen and other American players who jumped to the Mexican League, are barred for five years from organized baseball and even at the end of that period must first apply for reinstatement.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—Gerardo Pasquel expressed "complete surprise" tonight at reports Mickey Owen, manager and catcher for the Vera Cruz Blues, had broken his Mexican League contract and returned to the United States.

Pasquel said his brother, Jorge, league president and owner of the Puebla Pirates, said tonight he will remain with the club if it is sold to Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis banker.

It had been reported McKinney will purchase the Pirates for an estimated $2,500,000 on Thursday.

Asked if he would remain with the Pirates in some official capacity, Benswanger replied:

"Mr. McKinney asked me to stay with the club on a recent visit here. I told him I would not desert him. However, how long I will remain with him is something I would not care to say."

North End at East Side (East Side home)
Lacy's at Keegan's (Lacy's home)
Legion at Williams St. (Rolling Mill home)
Maccabees at P. F. C. (Community home)

Exploding in the last of the seventh inning for all of their runs, North End Social and Athletic Club softballers came from behind to edge out Williams Street tossers 3-2 in the latter's lead in the last half of the City Softball League to a half-game.

Entering the last of the seventh, Williams Street held a 2-0 margin but with one out and the bases loaded, Gene Whitman singled to center to drive in two runs and a bad throw from the outfield enabled the winning tally to cross the home plate. North End held the lead for the rest of the game.

In yesterday's other loop tilt, Lacy's Delicats defeated the Veterans of Foreign Wars 10-6 at Taylor field, American Legion wallpocketed East Side 11-1 at Community Park and the Maccabees trounced Keegan's Jesters 15-5 on the Rolling Mill diamond in a game limited to six innings by darkness.

Mullan had three hits and "Be" Orndorf, Harding and Miller each two for the Delicats with one of Harding's a triple and one of Miller's a double.

With Roy Taylor pitching one-hit ball, the Legion swamped East Side. The only hit off Taylor came in the sixth when Johnson beat out a single. Two errors and a passed ball gave East Side its only run in the third.

Taylor fanned six and was given a two-run working margin in the first when Mike Robinson walked and Ed Ruppach and Howie Wilson each doubled. Three more tallies came across in the second on a walk, Roy Taylor's single and Paul Kemp's double. In the sixth after two were out, Paul Kemp doubled to left, took third on Doyle George's bobble of Curt Hickie's sharp grounder and both runners scored on Ruppach's single. Singling Gaffney and Wilson drove in two more tallies in that frame.

Abe Duncan and Morgan each had three blows for the Maccabees, who pounded John Wolf for 19 safeties. Abe had a double and Duncan a triple in their collections. Steiner poled a homer and single for the Jesters. The scores:

Williams Street 12, North End 9.
Lacy's Delicats 10, Veterans of Foreign Wars 6.
American Legion 11, East Side 1.
Maccabees 15, Keegan's Jesters 5.

Body Of Negro Woman Is Found Near Bel Air

By G. K. BUTTERFIELD
BETH AIR, Aug. 5 (AP)—Harford county authorities are investigating the possibility that an unidentified 35-year-old negro woman, whose body was recovered recently from the waters of Bynum's run, near here, met with foul play, deputy Sheriff J. H. Blevins said.

Blevins said the body, fully clothed, was discovered by Roy Herbert Fagan, 21, and his brother, Jesse Clark Fagan, 22, Bel Air, as they crossed the Churchville road bridge, a mile east of the town, on their way to a nearby swimming pool.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mary A. Gross who passed away, one year ago, Aug. 5, 1945.

God knows how much we miss her.
Never shall our memories fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
to the spot where she is laid.

HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDSON,
JAMES W. LEASURE.
8-5-11-TN

In sad but loving memory of our dear
son and brother, Tommy Barnes, who departed this life five years ago, August
6, 1941.

Our child was fair, who came from Heaven to stay.
What this great world 'mong all the stars
might be.
Brief was his visit, filled with tears and
pain.
God pitied him, and took him home
again.

Sadly missed by his parents,
MR. AND MRS. T. BARNES,
AND FAMILY.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved wife
and mother, Mrs. Mary A. Gross who passed away one year ago, Aug. 5, 1945.

God knows how much we miss her.
Never shall our memories fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where she is laid.

HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDSON,
JAMES W. LEASURE

In sad but loving memory of our dear
son and brother, Tommy Barnes, who departed this life five years ago, August
6, 1941.

Our child was fair, who came from Heaven to see
What this great world 'mong all the stars
might be.

Brief was his visit, filled with tears and
pain;
God pitied him, and took him home
again.

Bodily missed by his parents,
MR. AND MRS. T. BARNES,
AND FAMILY.

Zoning Board Suggests 4 Sites For Bus Terminal

Dr. Koon Condemns Location Selected By Transportation Companies

The proposed location of Cumberland's new bus terminal at the corner of Frederick and Center streets was soundly condemned yesterday and four new sites were suggested at the meeting of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission in the office of Mayor Thomas A. Post.

Dr. Thomas W. Koon, commission chairman, termed the location selected by the Blue Ridge Transportation Company as the "worst possible" spot in the city with the exception of the corner of Baltimore and Centre streets.

Four Sites Suggested

The four sites suggested by Dr. Koon, and approved by the commission, are the Walton property on the corner of Baltimore and Henderson avenue; the "old foundry" location on the corner of Frederick street and Henderson avenue; the property on the corner of Charles street and Henderson avenue, or the corner of Fulton street and Henderson avenue.

Dr. Koon said the only possible objection anyone could have to any of these sites is the fact that they are located on the "other side" of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks. "But that is what we are trying to do," the former mayor explained, "locate the terminal on the east side of the tracks so it will not be necessary for buses to cross the track or enter the narrow streets in 'downtown' Cumberland."

One of the first things that should be considered, he said, is the hazards of crossing the railroad tracks. Accidents have occurred on other crossings and could happen here very easily, Dr. Koon said.

Dr. Koon, in making his suggestions, said the present flow of traffic through the city is only 30 per cent of what can be expected five years from now. Then the Centre-Frederick streets location would be impossible.

Terms Location Ideal

Any one of the properties suggested by the commission would provide ideal should the city ever erect the overhead bridge now under consideration, Eyerman said, because the terminal would then be adjacent to it.

Dr. Koon, in making his suggestions, said the present flow of traffic through the city is only 30 per cent of what can be expected five years from now. Then the Centre-Frederick streets location would be impossible.

The Zoning Commission delayed any action on making an official plan since Harold W. Smith, commission secretary and Benjamin W. O'Rourke, member, were not present. Dr. Koon said a special meeting will be called as soon as Smith is available and a formal report will be filed with the city council.

The commission would have the authority to request that a building permit be refused for any building, Dr. Koon explained, or if the building is erected the City Council and Police Department could refuse to permit buses to use the streets necessary to reach the terminal.

March Parking Space

Eyerman said that Henderson avenue would provide ample parking space should the terminal be erected at one of the proposed locations, something that couldn't be hoped for at the Frederick-Centre street site. He explained that one of the chief troubles at the present Frederick street location is with automobiles bringing patrons to the terminal or meeting arriving buses.

With the terminal on the east side of the tracks, Eyerman said, the buses wouldn't have to enter the business section of Cumberland at all, and at the same time bus patrons would have only to walk a block or a block and a half at the most to reach the heart of the city.

Dr. Koon termed the four suggestions "the most ideal" in the city. There would be no danger of train accidents nor would the streets of Cumberland be choked with buses all of the time. He said also that the noise made around the terminal at the time of arriving and departing buses would constantly interfere with work at city hall as it does now with tenants of the building above the bus terminal.

Others attending the meeting were Mayor Thomas A. Post, ex-officio member, Clarence H. Griggs and City Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller.

Thirteen-year-old Annie Bagshaw, Barton, was advised by Magistrate John Barnard in juvenile court yesterday that she should forget her plans to become the bride of Thomas Metz, 52-year-old Barton, son minor, and concentrate on going to school and Sunday school.

Annie was thwarted last week in her attempt to marry Metz, father of 14 children. On Saturday, Metz was arraigned in juvenile court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and was placed on parole for two years.

Magistrate Barnard told Annie she could regard herself as a ward of the state until she reaches the age of 21.

Once out of court Annie asked her mother, "Maw, do I have to go to Sunday school like that man said?"

"Yes, child," the mother responded.

Asked about the courtship between Annie and Metz, Mrs. Davis replied, "Well, mostly they just sat on the porch, but sometimes they went to the movies."

Annie, looking somewhat surprised at her mother's answer, interjected, "Why, maw, we went places quite a bit together."

Mrs. Davis said Metz is "such a nice man" and "well thought of." Court attaches pointed out that he has the reputation of never having missed church in 20 years in Barton.

First Aid Section Treats 11 Persons During Air Show

The Red Cross first aid section, of which H. Lee Silcox is chairman, had a busy day Sunday at the Greater Cumberland Air Show, at Cumberland Municipal Airport, when 10 persons were treated for heat exhaustion and minor injuries.

In addition, many aged persons sought the shade of the first aid tent, and over 1,000 went to the tent for drinking water.

Lacked Drinking Water

Silcox said one of the biggest problems at the show was the lack of drinking water, and when refreshment stands sold out of soft drinks and milk, many people suffered. The Red Cross served as many as possible and several Boy Scouts were kept busy hauling water to the water cooler.

C.; Mary Willis, Elk Garden, W. Va.; Miss Sires, this city; Phyllis Summers, Holidays Cove, Pa.; Aaron Seigel, Frostburg; and Douglas Frey, Keyser, W. Va.

Police said they received a report at 1:40 p. m. that two boys had seen a woman jump into the river at Welton tunnel. When Detective Lt. B. Frank Gaffney and Sgt. Raymond R. Johnston investigated, they learned that the woman was safe at her home in South Cumberland and that her father had gotten her out of the water.

Authorities said the woman could and was swimming when her father, knowing she was despondent over the death of her husband, arrived on the scene.

Va., under the terms of the will of the late Col. E. Austin Baughman, former state motor vehicles commissioner and organizer of Maryland State Police.

The will, filed in Orphans' Court at Frederick also bequeaths $1,000 to Miss Brant's sister, Mrs. Frank L. Deetz, also of Pearre avenue.

The estate, filed in Frederick court yesterday, values the Baughman estate at approximately $250,000.

Miss Brant Is Surprised

The West Virginia property, located about three miles north of Romney, which was bequeathed to Miss Brant, is valued at approximately $25,000.

Popularly known as the Hill Club or "The Hill," it was built a number of years ago by a retired army officer as a country home, but was later acquired by a group of prominent men for use as a club and summer place.

The club membership gradually disintegrated, and the property was jointly owned for several years by the late Fuller Barnard, the late J. Philip Roman, and F. Brooke Whiting of this city and Baughman. The three local men eventually sold their interest in "The Hill" so Baughman could be remodeled and visited it frequently.

"The Hill Club" is located on a mountain peak and overlooks the South Branch of the Potomac river. In addition to the mansion house, there is said to be another building, converted into a western bar, decorated with western scenes, buffalo heads etc.

Miss Brant was notified of her inheritance by the News last night. She said she was quite surprised, and that it was quite satisfactory. She declined to pose for a News photo and explained that she did not wish any publicity. She told the News she had not been informed of the inheritance before being contacted by the newspaper.

Other Bequests Made

Under the terms of the will, Baughman's Popular Terrace estate west of Frederick, was left to his nephew, Dr. Charles H. Conroy, Jr., and that it was quite satisfactory. It includes a 52-room mansion, a smaller stone dwelling, livestock, grain and feed in addition to personal property.

A niece, Mrs. Martha Conley Hall, was left a cash amount, equal to the appraised value of Popular Terrace Estate.

Two nieces, Mrs. Eleanor Brook Lee and Mrs. Mary Clare Tipps, both of Frederick, were bequeathed $5,000 each, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Marshall, Washington, D. C., were left $10,000.

Another bequest of $10,000 went to Miss Betty Lee Stauffer, also of Frederick.

Baughman died last Saturday of a heart ailment at the age of 68.

City Collects 85 Per Cent Of Taxes

Approximately 85 per cent of the city's 1946 taxes were collected in June, representing $601,648.88 of the $695,250 levy, Charles F. Burke, Jr., tax collector, reported to the Mayor and City Council yesterday morning.

Burke explained that the remaining 15 per cent will be harder to collect than the 85 collected in July. He said the tax levy is preparatory and goes into effect April 1 after tabulations and preparation of bills, collections start coming in during June.

Burke's report breaks down as follows: General tax, $570,632.82 of the total amount. This includes slightly more than $1,000 of taxes from the fiscal year of 1945 and smaller amounts back to 1942. Paving liens amounted to $1,707.80 while sewer liens were $112.43. Water rents amounted to $28,966.98.

The Sunday movie tax for July amounted to $1,061.95 and general licenses brought $3,441. The latter includes taxes on pin ball machines, cigarette, soda drinks, and candy.

C. Glenn Watson, local real estate dealer, was appointed by Mayor Thomas S. Post to investigate the closing of an alley in the Bedford Place addition adjacent to the Schmidt Baking Company.

A tax refund of $450 was ordered paid to Charles J. Sothe, 603 Wilkins street, for duplication of payments. City officials accepted an invitation to attend the opening meeting of the Maryland Department, American Legion convention on August 14 at 8 p. m.

A request of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company to erect a sign at the right hand side of the Blue Bridge on Johnson street, was referred to the street commissioner and the chief of police.

Held For Grand Jury In Theft Of Saw

John H. DeNormande, 55, this city, who police said stole an electric saw valued at $150 from a local man who befriended him recently, was committed to the county jail for action of the October grand jury when he was arraigned yesterday in Trial Magistrate's Court on a larceny charge. He was unable to post $300 bond.

According to police Marshall Birch, of 135 Humboldt Street, found the man in South Cumberland and took him to the city jail for a night's lodging after the defendant said he had no place to sleep. DeNormande was seen near his home the following day.

DeNormande was "held on his own confession," court attaches said. He was arrested Saturday afternoon by Detective Lt. B. Frank Gaffney and Technical Sgt. John Newhouse, who recovered the saw and returned it to Birch this morning.

Zoning Board Suggests 4 Sites For Bus Terminal

Dr. Koon Condemns Location Selected By Transportation Companies

The proposed location of Cumberland's new bus terminal at the corner of Frederick and Center streets was soundly condemned yesterday and four new sites were suggested at the meeting of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Dr. Thomas W. Koon, commission chairman, termed the location selected by the Blue Ridge Transportation Company as the "worst possible" spot in the city with the exception of the corner of Baltimore and Centre streets.

Four Sites Suggested

The four sites suggested by Dr. Koon, and approved by the commission, are the Walton property on the corner of Baltimore avenue and Henderson avenue; the "old foundry" location on the corner of Frederick street and Henderson avenue; the property on the corner of Charles street and Henderson avenue; or the corner of Fulton street and Henderson avenue.

Dr. Koon said the only possible objection anyone could have to any of these sites is the fact that they are located on the "other side" of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks. "But that is what we are trying to do," the former mayor explained, "locate the terminal on the east side of the tracks so it will not be necessary for buses to cross the track or enter the narrow streets in 'downtown' Cumberland."

One of the first things that should be considered, he said, is the hazards of crossing the railroad tracks. Accidents have occurred on other crossings and could happen here very easily, Dr. Koon said.

Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman, who attended the meeting, said any one of the proposed sites would meet with his approval since it would lessen the traffic congestion in the heart of the city. The chief explained that even the Merchandise Mart on South Mechanic street was offered only as a temporary solution because the buses still would have to pass through the center of town.

Terms Location Ideal

Any one of the properties suggested by the commission would provide ideal should the city ever erect the overhead bridge now under consideration, Eyerman said, because the terminal would then be adjacent to it.

Dr. Koon, in making his suggestions, said the present flow of bus traffic through the city is only 30 per cent of what can be expected five years from now. Then the Centre-Frederick streets location would be impossible.

The Zoning Commission delayed any action on making an official protest since Harold W. Smith, commission secretary, and Benjamin W. O'Rourke, member, were not present. Dr. Koon said a special meeting will be called as soon as Smith is available and a formal protest will be filed with the city council.

The commission would have the authority to request a building permit be refused the bus companies, Dr. Koon explained, or if the building is erected the City Council and Police Department could refuse to permit buses to use the streets necessary to reach the terminal.

Much Parking Space

Eyerman said that Henderson avenue would provide ample parking space should the terminal be erected at one of the proposed locations, something that couldn't be hoped for at the Frederick-Centre street site. He explained that one of the chief troubles at the present Frederick street location is with automobiles bringing patrons to the terminal or meeting arriving buses.

With the terminal on the east side of the tracks, Eyerman said, the buses wouldn't have to enter the business district of Cumberland at all, and at the same time bus patrons would have only to walk a block or a block and a half at the most to reach the heart of the city.

Dr. Koon termed the four suggestions "the most ideal" in the city. There would be no danger of train-bus accidents nor would the streets of Cumberland be choked with buses all of the time. He said also that the noise made around the terminal at the time of arriving and departing buses would constantly interfere with work at city hall as it does now with tenants of the building above the bus terminal.

Others attending the meeting were Mayor Thomas S. Post, ex-officio member, Clarence H. Griggs and City Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller.

Girl Told To Forget Plans For Marriage

Thirteen-year-old Annie Barthlow, Barton, was advised by Magistrate John Barnard in juvenile court yesterday that she should forget her plans to become the bride of Thomas Metz, 52-year-old Barton coal miner, and concentrate on going to school and Sunday school.

Annie was thwarted last week in her attempt to marry Metz, father of 14 children. On Saturday, Metz was arraigned in juvenile court on the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and was placed on parole and warned by the court to stop associating with the girl.

Yesterday, Annie was charged with being a delinquent minor, and her mother, Mrs. Maggie Davis, who appeared in court with her, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her daughter. Both were found guilty by the court and placed on parole for two years.

Magistrate Barnard told Annie she could regard herself as a ward of the state until she reaches the age of 21.

Once out of court Annie asked her mother, "Maw, do I have to go to Sunday school like that man said?"

"Yes, child," the mother responded.

Asked about the courtship between Annie and Metz, Mrs. Davis replied, "Well, mostly they just sat on the porch, but sometimes they went to the movies."

Annie, looking somewhat surprised at her mother's answer, interjected, "Why, maw, we went places quite a bit together."

Mrs. Davis said Metz is "such a nice man" and "well thought of." Court attaches pointed out that he has the reputation of never having missed church in 20 years in Barton.
